Aid Sought For Finding Train Loot

$678,179 Located By British Police; 'Big Shots' Hunted

LONDON (AP) — Police asked hikers and picnickers today to join a mammoth weekend treasure hunt for the rest of the $7 million loot from Britain's great train robbery.

Any hole found dug in the countryside, for example, should be reported, the police said.

The appeal came after the discovery Friday of four discarded bags stuffed with $282,520 in bank notes in a wooded Surrey beauty spot.

The find, bringing the total amount recovered so far to $678,179, strengthened a police theory that the gang which pounced with such precision on the Glasgow-London mail train 10 days ago now is panicking.

Five persons have been arrested and charged with minor roles in the robbery. Scotland Yard pressed the hunt for the big shots.

The police, coast guard and navy kept a special watch on the English Channel in case any gang member attempted to slip to the Continent.

A man and a woman on the way to work found the money bags—two zippered grips, a briefcase and a suitcase—30 yards from a road through Redlands Wood.

The loot apparently had been dumped only a short time before the discovery by John Ahern, 53, a clerk, and Mrs. Esa Hargrave.

Only one case was half hidden.

Soviet Premier Under Pressure

Rusk Indicates Further East-West Accord Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev is believed to be under domestic as well as foreign pressures to reach new agreements with the United States and its allies for easing tensions and reducing the dangers of war.

This belief evidently underlies the cautious optimism indicated by Secretary of State Dean Rusk at his news conference Friday that further East-West accords, following up the nuclear test ban success, may be possible.

Rusk particularly cited the possibility of working out a system for stationing observers in key transportation centers of the great powers to guard against the danger of surprise attack.

At the same time he warned that the hopeful situation could be turned upside down "by tomorrow morning", and added: "We just have to keep working at it to see what can happen."

Rusk was in the Soviet Union a week ago and held policy talks with Khrushchev and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

He is scheduled to meet Gromyko in New York next month for further discussions on the next round of U.S.-Soviet negotiations to reduce tensions. Meanwhile, he is directing consultations with the United States' North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies on a possible nonaggression pact with Soviet bloc countries and on related issues.

Rusk said he believes the Soviet Union "has some real interest in this test ban treaty and in exploring these matters (issues of possible future agreement) further."

"I think the argumen between Moscow and Peking about the role of thermonuclear war in the modern world is a serious argument," Rusk declared.

"I believe that the Soviet Union does have, as all of us have, some great unfinished tasks for its own people in which it would like to make substantially large investment."

Rusk's reference to the conflict between the Soviet Union and Red China was in line with a view widely held by top government officials that Khrushchev is seriously worried about the growing hostility in the Red Chinese leaders toward the Kremlin and feels that he should improve his relations with the West and demonstrate that his policy of peaceful coexistence can produce results.

The dispute over thermonuclear war is a fundamental issue of the conflict. Khrushchev argues that the Communists cannot afford to use major war as an instrument for spreading revolution.

The Chinese contend that great risks are necessary and that war is probably inevitable in the process.

Rusk did not spell out what economic pressures he sees operating on Khrushchev, but his general comment was in line with what well-informed officials say privately. Their view is that Khrushchev must find some way of reducing military costs and the military drain on Soviet industrial resources if he is to expand the civilian economy and increase activities in the light industry and consumer goods fields.

This evidently was what Rusk had in mind in referring to "great unfinished tasks."

Presumably Khrushchev hopes that agreements with the West would lessen the danger of war would make it possible to make the reductions in military costs which would allow him to finance activities in other fields.

Friday night, W. Averell Harriman, chief U.S. negotiator of the limited nuclear test ban treaty, said that after last October's Cuban missile crisis showdown "it became very evident that Mr. Khrushchev did not want to have anything to do with atomic war."

Khrushchev is finding it very expensive to keep up the arms race, Harriman said in a program taped for Florida radio-television stations.

The Soviet Union is trying to get all nations to sign the treaty to "keep the spotlight on Red China for failing to sign," Harriman continued. "They are trying to make the world believe that Red China is more dangerous than they are."

Provisional Okay Given Wirtz Plan

Carriers Agree To Proposal; Threat Of Strike Eased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rail negotiations inched forward today, spurred by conditional union acceptance of a Labor Department proposal for arbitration of the two key issues in the prolonged work rules dispute.

The unions' provisional acceptance on Friday of Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz' proposal —to which the carriers agreed without reservation—signaled a possible major breakthrough in the deadlock that threatens to produce a nationwide rail strike Aug. 29.

But Wirtz declared, "We're by no means home," and J. E. Wolfe, chief negotiator for the railroads, viewed the unions' conditions as amounting to rejection of the secretary's plan.

Wolfe said, however, that attorneys for the carriers would meet today with lawyers for the five operating unions to examine legal problems posed by Wirtz' proposal.

Advanced on Thursday night, Wirtz' plan calls for submitting the questions of firemen's jobs and makeup of train crews to an arbitration board of management, union and public representatives. The board would make a binding decision on these key issues. Other issues would be left to settlement by the two sides.

In giving qualified approval, the unions said there first must be agreement on procedures to settle the "other than manning issues." Wirtz said Labor Department officials would meet with rail and union representatives on this matter over the weekend.

"At this moment, it is impossible to know whether a settlement can be reached privately," the secretary said Friday night. "The situation is very critical."

After learning of the unions' statement, Wolfe said, "Their response was so surrounded with reservations as to cast doubt on their sincerity." He told newsmen the unions' position "may present an insurmountable obstacle" to final settlement.

Unless the dispute is settled or legislation to deal with it is passed, the railroads will put the job-eliminating rules into effect Aug. 29, Wolfe said. The unions

4 Americans Rescued

154 Of 209 Safe As Ferry Sinks

TOKYO (AP)—A 300-ton ferry boat carrying 194 passengers and a crew of about 15 sank in heavy seas off Okinawa today. The semi-official Japan Broadcasting Corp. said a U.S. military vessel rescued 154 persons, including four Americans. Two bodies were found.

The boat, the Midori Maru, was bound from Tomari, the port of Naha on Okinawa's main island, westward for Kumejima, the westernmost of the Okinawa islands in the Ryukyu chain southwest of Japan.

The Japanese Maritime Safety Agency said it had monitored an Okinawan radio broadcast saying the sinking occurred four miles north of Maejima island, 15 miles west of Naha, the capital of Okinawa main island.

Reports from Japanese correspondents in Okinawa said the ferry which also carried a crew of 15, had sailed from Naha at 11 a.m. and ran into heavy seas and sank near the Kerama archipelago to which Maejima belongs.

The ferry was identified as the Midori Maru.

The Japan Broadcasting Corp. report said two of the passengers swam to Okinawa and reported the sinking.

U.S. military and local authorities began an immediate search for survivors.

The newspaper Asahi said the 104 rescued passengers included four Americans. They were not immediately identified.

Most of the passengers were believed to be Ryukyuan nationals.

The ferry was bound for Kumejima, 60 miles west of Naha, reports said.

Court Eases Closing Time Of Vets Club

Judge Joel H. Sharp Friday authorized the Veterans Social Club to remain open until 2 a.m., DST, as he eased restrictions placed on the Pennsylvania Ave. club last May after complaints from authorities and neighbors of nuisance conditions.

The operators petitioned the court for permission to remain open longer, claiming the earlier closing was hurting business. The club's state liquor license allows it to remain open until 2 a. m.

May 9, the judge ordered the club closed permanently, but gave the operators another chance providing they made certain changes and closed at 10 p.m., Sunday through Thursday, and midnight Fridays and Saturdays.

At that hearing Robert Trbovich, a neighbor, and the Rev. Edwin John Phinn of the nearby Grace United Presbyterian Church were among those complaining, and both gave testimony of observing rowdy behavior by patrons.

At the same hearing, Richard Pack and Robert Watters, new stewards, testified on their progress in trying to improve the club after they acquired it from Samuel Johnson, former operator.

Both Trbovich and Rev. Phinn were sent registered letters of this week's hearing but neither appeared. They were also called by Atty. Don Smith of East Liverpool, representing the club. Rev. Phinn was reported on vacation.

In allowing the club to remain open longer, Judge Sharp emphasized that all the other court orders will remain in effect. The closing time was extended providing that the club keeps its activities under proper supervision.

He advised the stewards that if patrons cause trouble they should have them arrested and barred from visiting the club. "In this way you will be allowed to keep the club open and everyone satisfied," Judge Sharp added.

Fulbright Sees Overwhelming Approval

Senate's Vote On Test Ban Treaty Seen In 2 Weeks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright says his foreign relations committee should be ready within two weeks to send the limited nuclear test ban treaty to the Senate floor.

The Arkansas Democrat predicts overwhelming ratification of the ban on all but underground blasts—perhaps with fewer than 20 votes in opposition.

Fulbright made this forecast Friday after John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, told the committee he favors ratification and regards the treaty as compatible with national security.

Earlier, Fulbright had said the vote might be 80-20 in favor of the pact—well over the required two-thirds majority. McCone's endorsement probably reduced the opposition further, Fulbright told newsmen.

McCone's secret testimony rounded out the first week of committee hearings. Members of the Senate Armed Services Committee and senators who serve on the joint Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee have been sitting in.

The armed services group has asked Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara for a statement setting forth how safeguards urged by the Joint Chiefs of Staff are to be carried out. Fulbright said he does not expect this to delay action by his committee.

McNamara has given the pact his blessing, and the military chiefs have endorsed it provided the ban is accompanied by certain safeguards to reduce what they term disadvantages and risks.

These safeguards include an aggressive program for nuclear weapons development through underground tests, maintenance of modern nuclear laboratory facilities, a readiness to resume atmospheric testing promptly should the Soviet Union abrogate the treaty and improvement of techniques to detect violations.

Friday, the Senate preparedness subcommittee, a unit of the armed services committee, heard Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff. The subcommittee chairman, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., reported LeMay supported the treaty but expressed "far more concern than the other military chiefs."

LeMay will have a chance to testify publicly Monday before the foreign relations committee, along with Gen. Earle Wheeler, Army chief of staff; Adm. David McDonald, chief of naval operations, and Gen. David Shoup, the Marine Corps commandant.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a member of the Stennis subcommittee, told newsmen "I just don't think the military have their hearts in this." And, in a speech Friday night in Madison, Wis., Goldwater described the test ban pact as the first step toward a nonaggression treaty sealing Soviet domination of European satellites.

Appeal Move Undecided In Police Dispute

Wellsville Solicitor Studies Ruling To Determine Action

The city administration in Wellsville is undecided at present on either filing notice of appeal or requesting of a new hearing in connection with Thursday's Common Pleas Court ruling ordering Mayor William W. Daugherty to appoint a fifth patrolman to the police department.

Mayor Daugherty indicated he plans no action until learning of the plans of Solicitor William J. Bush concerning the avenue of approach the city will choose.

Atty. Bush said no conclusions have been reached and a discussion is incomplete on further action in the way of filing for an appeal or seeking a new hearing in Lisbon.

The city has 20 days in which to file notice of appeal of Judge Joel H. Sharp's ruling ordering the appointment of a fifth patrolman forthwith, and 10 days in which to ask for a new hearing in Common Pleas Court.

Atty. Bush gave no indications on further action.

Judge Sharp handed down his decision after two days of testimony in a hearing in which former patrolman Joseph Heiney sought a writ of mandamus for appointment of a patrolman to a vacancy created by his resignation June 16.

Heiney is president of the Fraternal Order of Police Associates Lodge 11, which shared in financing costs of bringing the suit

Scientists' Only Explanation

Do 'Gremlins In Space' Tamper With Satellites?

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—Are there gremlins in space who tamper with satellites and then put them back in working order again?

That's the only explanation two scientists have for the mysterious blackout and sudden rejuvenation equipment on four U.S. satellites in the last year.

The mystery was underlined this week when, within three days, it was announced that two of the satellites—the ANNA geodetic sphere and the Telstar 2 communications package—had come back to life.

Scientists closely connected with each program, here for a satellite conference, were asked their opinion of the celestial goings-on.

Richard B. Kesrhner of the Applied Physics Laboratory, Johns Hopkins University, which developed ANNA, reported that after two months of inactivity, ANNA's four flashing lights inexplicably resumed flashing.

"We have no explanation for the lights coming back on," Kershner said. "We don't like to believe in space gremlins, but we've reached the point where that's as good an explanation as any. They're working beautifully now, and we're thankful."

Gremlins, imaginary creatures dreamed up by the servicemen of World War II, were blamed for anything that went wrong for an unexplained reason.

Kershner said trouble with the blinking beacons on the "firefly" satellite began about two months after it was launched last October.

"The space gremlins got into the satellite and started worrying the device which causes the lights to flash," he reported. "The power and frequency of the flashes degenerated until they finally stopped altogether."

He said the Air Force, which had been photographing the lights against the stars to gather information about the shape of the earth, packed up its tracking equipment.

"The lights came back on and now the Air Force is scrambling to reactivate the equipment," Kershner said.

"It looks like we've got gremlins, too," remarked Doren Mitchell of Bell Telephone Laboratories in commenting on last Monday's reactivation of Telstar 2. Bell built the satellite, which was launched May 7 and lost its transmitting voice July 16.

"There's no indication what caused the failure, although a collision with a meteorite has not been ruled out," Mitchell said. "The meteorite might have knocked out a piece of equipment, which somehow fixed itself."

Sunny But Cool Seen Sunday With No Rain

The Tri - State District can look ahead to sunny skies and cool temperatures Sunday for another pleasant weekend of waning summer with no rain forecast.

In fact, the Ohio weatherman had predicted showers late Friday and again this morning but none materialized, and the only precipitation locally was a light sprinkle early today.

Cool - side temperatures will persist, however, with tonight's low range 52 to 57 degrees. The day's high may hit 80, which would be a peak reading since Monday, when the chilly trend began developing.

U.S. Praises Soviet Boat In Flier Rescue

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—The U.S. government and an American airman had praise today for Soviet fishermen who rescued the flier 87 miles off Cape Cod.

Capt. Hugh Lavallee, 29, of the Massachusetts National Guard, parachuted 20,000 feet from his disabled fighter plane on Friday and was rescued by the crew of a Soviet fishing vessel.

"They were extremely friendly" Lavallee said. "No one spoke English fluently, but I was able to communicate with them. They all shook my hand several times and kept saying 'Peace'. I just smiled and thanked them."

Rear Adm. Chester L. Harding, commandant of the 1st Coast Guard District, sent a message to the rescue ship, Johannes Ware, reading in part: "Your prompt action . . . is greatly appreciated."

Lavallee, a Springfield, Mass., insurance man in civilian life, dropped to the calm, sunlit ocean in an area where an estimated 300 Soviet vessels were fishing.

The Johannes Ware was alerted to Lavallee's plight by other American fliers. A motor launch

Wonderful Treatment At Otis

President's Wife Wants Another Baby Next Year

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy is spending his seventh consecutive weekend with his family at their seaside retreat on Cape Cod. He flew up from Washington late Friday.

Mrs. Kennedy is convalescing at their gray-shingle residence from the caesarean, premature birth 10 days ago of a son who lived less than two days.

Although the First Lady has an extended record of difficult births in her 10 years of marriage, she still wants to have another baby.

Reports came out of nearby Otis Air Force Base, where Mrs. Kennedy spent a week in a military hospital, that she told staff members that she had received wonderful treatment and wanted to return next year to have another baby there.

While the First Lady's doctor has described her recovery as satisfactory, the President is flying back and forth from the capital to be with her and their children, Caroline, 5½, and John Jr., 2½.

He had left here only Thursday morning and was back in 32 hours.

Kennedy plans to return to Washington Monday morning, then come back to the Cape for an overnight stay in midweek — probably on Wednesday. He has a news conference scheduled for 3 p.m. EST Tuesday in Washington. He expects to be here again next weekend.

Senate's Vote On Test Ban Treaty Seen In 2 Weeks

Wellsville Solicitor Studies Ruling To Determine Action

The city administration in Wellsville is undecided at present on either filing notice of appeal or requesting of a new hearing in connection with Thursday's Common Pleas Court ruling ordering Mayor William W. Daugherty to appoint a fifth patrolman to the police department.

Mayor Daugherty indicated he plans no action until learning of the plans of Solicitor William J. Bush concerning the avenue of approach the city will choose.

Scientists' Only Explanation

Do 'Gremlins In Space' Tamper With Satellites?

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—Are there gremlins in space who tamper with satellites and then put them back in working order again?

That's the only explanation two scientists have for the mysterious blackout and sudden rejuvenation equipment on four U.S. satellites in the last year.

The mystery was underlined this week when, within three days, it was announced that two of the satellites—the ANNA geodetic sphere and the Telstar 2 communications package—had come back to life.

Scientists closely connected with each program, here for a satellite conference, were asked their opinion of the celestial goings-on.

Richard B. Kesrhner of the Applied Physics Laboratory, Johns Hopkins University, which developed ANNA, reported that after two months of inactivity, ANNA's four flashing lights inexplicably resumed flashing.

"We have no explanation for the lights coming back on," Kershner said. "We don't like to believe in space gremlins, but we've reached the point where that's as good an explanation as any. They're working beautifully now, and we're thankful."

Gremlins, imaginary creatures dreamed up by the servicemen of World War II, were blamed for anything that went wrong for an unexplained reason.

Kershner said trouble with the blinking beacons on the "firefly" satellite began about two months after it was launched last October.

"The space gremlins got into the satellite and started worrying the device which causes the lights to flash," he reported. "The power and frequency of the flashes degenerated until they finally stopped altogether."

He said the Air Force, which had been photographing the lights against the stars to gather information about the shape of the earth, packed up its tracking equipment.

"The lights came back on and now the Air Force is scrambling to reactivate the equipment," Kershner said.

"It looks like we've got gremlins, too," remarked Doren Mitchell of Bell Telephone Laboratories in commenting on last Monday's reactivation of Telstar 2. Bell built the satellite, which was launched May 7 and lost its transmitting voice July 16.

"There's no indication what caused the failure, although a collision with a meteorite has not been ruled out," Mitchell said. "The meteorite might have knocked out a piece of equipment, which somehow fixed itself."

Sunny But Cool Seen Sunday With No Rain

The Tri - State District can look ahead to sunny skies and cool temperatures Sunday for another pleasant weekend of waning summer with no rain forecast.

In fact, the Ohio weatherman had predicted showers late Friday and again this morning but none materialized, and the only precipitation locally was a light sprinkle early today.

Cool - side temperatures will persist, however, with tonight's low range 52 to 57 degrees. The day's high may hit 80, which would be a peak reading since Monday, when the chilly trend began developing.

Court Eases Closing Time Of Vets Club

Judge Joel H. Sharp Friday authorized the Veterans Social Club to remain open until 2 a.m., DST, as he eased restrictions placed on the Pennsylvania Ave. club last May after complaints from authorities and neighbors of nuisance conditions.

The operators petitioned the court for permission to remain open longer, claiming the earlier closing was hurting business. The club's state liquor license allows it to remain open until 2 a. m.

May 9, the judge ordered the club closed permanently, but gave the operators another chance providing they made certain changes and closed at 10 p.m., Sunday through Thursday, and midnight Fridays and Saturdays.

At that hearing Robert Trbovich, a neighbor, and the Rev. Edwin John Phinn of the nearby Grace United Presbyterian Church were among those complaining, and both gave testimony of observing rowdy behavior by patrons.

At the same hearing, Richard Pack and Robert Watters, new stewards, testified on their progress in trying to improve the club after they acquired it from Samuel Johnson, former operator.

Both Trbovich and Rev. Phinn were sent registered letters of this week's hearing but neither appeared. They were also called by Atty. Don Smith of East Liverpool, representing the club. Rev. Phinn was reported on vacation.

In allowing the club to remain open longer, Judge Sharp emphasized that all the other court orders will remain in effect. The closing time was extended providing that the club keeps its activities under proper supervision.

He advised the stewards that if patrons cause trouble they should have them arrested and barred from visiting the club. "In this way you will be allowed to keep the club open and everyone satisfied," Judge Sharp added.

U.S. Praises Soviet Boat In Flier Rescue

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—The U.S. government and an American airman had praise today for Soviet fishermen who rescued the flier 87 miles off Cape Cod.

Capt. Hugh Lavallee, 29, of the Massachusetts National Guard, parachuted 20,000 feet from his disabled fighter plane on Friday and was rescued by the crew of a Soviet fishing vessel.

"They were extremely friendly" Lavallee said. "No one spoke English fluently, but I was able to communicate with them. They all shook my hand several times and kept saying 'Peace'. I just smiled and thanked them."

Rear Adm. Chester L. Harding, commandant of the 1st Coast Guard District, sent a message to the rescue ship, Johannes Ware, reading in part: "Your prompt action . . . is greatly appreciated."

Lavallee, a Springfield, Mass., insurance man in civilian life, dropped to the calm, sunlit ocean in an area where an estimated 300 Soviet vessels were fishing.

The Johannes Ware was alerted to Lavallee's plight by other American fliers. A motor launch

President's Wife Wants Another Baby Next Year

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy is spending his seventh consecutive weekend with his family at their seaside retreat on Cape Cod. He flew up from Washington late Friday.

Mrs. Kennedy is convalescing at their gray-shingle residence from the caesarean, premature birth 10 days ago of a son who lived less than two days.

Although the First Lady has an extended record of difficult births in her 10 years of marriage, she still wants to have another baby.

Reports came out of nearby Otis Air Force Base, where Mrs. Kennedy spent a week in a military hospital, that she told staff members that she had received wonderful treatment and wanted to return next year to have another baby there.

While the First Lady's doctor has described her recovery as satisfactory, the President is flying back and forth from the capital to be with her and their children, Caroline, 5½, and John Jr., 2½.

He had left here only Thursday morning and was back in 32 hours.

Kennedy plans to return to Washington Monday morning, then come back to the Cape for an overnight stay in midweek — probably on Wednesday. He has a news conference scheduled for 3 p.m. EST Tuesday in Washington. He expects to be here again next weekend.

Buzulencia compared the present law with the revised version in discussing the pending changes.

The present law requires claimants to have worked at least 20 weeks in the base period and earn $240 with work in any part of a week constituting an entire week. The maximum benefit remains at $42 plus any dependency allowance to which the claimant is entitled, Buzulencia said. However, a new method is used in computing the amount.

Under the present law, the benefit payment is based on the highest quarterly earnings but the new statute bases the payment on the average weekly wage, which is computed by dividing the earnings in "credit weeks" by the number of "credit weeks." Claimants will receive one - half of the average wage.

A change also will be made in the duration of the payments. Under the present law, those eligible can draw unemployment compensation for 26 weeks. Under certain circumstances, Buzulencia said Social Security payments and payments under pension plans would be deducted from benefit payments on a prorated basis.

A change has been made in the employer's rate with the rate increased to 4 per cent plus half of one per cent for a mutual fund, Buzulencia said.

He was introduced by Harry L. Dinsmore, manager of the Ohio State Employment Service office and program chairman.

John Smith, president, reminded members of the annual family picnic Wednesday at 5 p. m. at Pavilion 3 in Thompson Park. Don Wolfe, chairman, said reservations must be turned in by Sunday.

200 West Berliners Pay Tribute To Slain Youth

BERLIN (AP) — Two hundred West Berliners gathered at the Red Wall today and paid tribute to Peter Fechter, a young East Berliner shot down a year ago trying to escape.

The crowd watched as Maj. Gen. James H. Polk, U.S. Berlin commandant, and Mayor Willy Brandt laid wreaths at the Fechter memorial a few feet from where he was shot near U.S. Checkpoint Charlie.

Dozens of East Berliners, living near the spot where the 18-year-old construction worker was cut down by Red submachine gun bullets, peered from behind curtains as Polk and Brandt stood silently for one minute with their heads bowed.

The simple wooden cross was flanked by four, black-draped pylons carrying flaming torches on the top. West Berlin policemen stood honor guard.

A number of East German border guards were patrolling the Wall, while others observed the ceremony through holes in the wall of the bombed-out building just across from the memorial.

In anticipation of anti-Communist demonstrations that could easily turn into rioting, police cordoned off the Checkpoint Charlie area.

Only a few persons at a time were allowed to pass through police lines near the memorial.

Fechter was gunned down by border guards Aug. 17, 1962, when he and a fellow worked tried to scale the wall.

While his friend made it to West Berlin, Fechter was hit in the back, standing on top of the wall. He toppled backward and lay bleeding for nearly an hour before the East Germans carried him away. He died on route to a hospital.

West Berlins were furious over the slaying. There was considerable criticism of U.S. authorities for not ordering their troops to go to Fechter's rescue.

Woman Refugee Declares Cuba Becoming 'Shoeless'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—"Cuba is becoming a shoeless nation," a woman refugee who escaped Fidel Castro kidnapers said today.

"Shoes are getting scarcer all the time and thousands in Cuba are barefoot, especially children," Mrs. Olga de Hernandez reported.

Several members of her party, including her three children, wore shoes for the first time in months. Her son, Reogelio, celebrated his 12th birthday today with shoes.

Havana butchers Domingo Gonzalez and Gabriel Bolanos looked uncomfortable but natty in sporty brown oxfords to which they were unaccustomed.

They were outfitted with the shoes after visiting the Cuban refugee center along with others of the party of 10 that eluded Castro gunboats earlier this week on British-owned Anguilla Cay. They had landed there after fleeing their countries.

Bolanos grinned as his Zapatos Spanish for shoes) squeaked. He remarked, "This is great, one person in 10 in Cuba is without shoes or has some ragged things that hardly could be called shoes."

Mrs. Hernandez, who said that she and her family hid behind bushes and prayed when the Castro raiders arrived at the island, said they fled Cuba because "life there has become miserable."

"We don't even have freedom of worship," said the slender, worry-lined woman of 33.

"One night recently," she related, "three youths with guns in holsters and open shirts invaded the Matanzas Presbyterian church while the congregation sang hymns.

"Our pastor told us to keep on singing which we did. Then the pastor spoke. The invaders left but shouted through the windows 'viva Fidel, viva Fidel'."

Scareities are multiplying, Mrs. Hernandez reported.

Cubans complain, she said, about insufficient and poor quality rice. This cereal is eaten at least twice daily by Cubans.

Mrs. Hernandez and other escapees said Russians are everywhere in Cuba.

"We were tired of seeing them," she declared.

Her husband, Francisco, who left Cuba last December for Miami and returned to get his family, remarked, "We thank God for this, but something must be done about the 19 who were snatched back. That kind of thing is an example of life under Communism."

Gay Street Fair In New York City Erupts Into Riot

NEW YORK (AP)—What started out as a gay street fair in the Bronx Friday night erupted into a riot, touched off by the accidental shooting of a girl in the leg.

About 500 persons, mostly Puerto Ricans, were on hand for the affair, sponsored by two Spanish-language papers, when two men got into an argument.

One of the men fired a pistol, the bullet striking 13-year-old Blanca Hernandez. Ippolito Figeuroa, 33, who fired the shot, fled. He was shot in the leg by a patrolman.

Benny Irrizarry, 38, punched a patrolman in the face, and he was subdued after a short struggle.

The crowd, many of whom assembled on rooftops, heaved bottles, bricks and firecrackers at a riot squad of about 20 policemen. Police fired at least 30 warning shots to clear the roofs of hostile onlookers.

ROME (AP) — An old Hercules stopped a new bulldozer on a road outside Rome. The bulldozer was flattening a hump of earth when the blade bit hard below the road and stopped. Workmen with shovels uncovered a heavy sarcophagus carved with a figure of Hercules. Archeologists dated the find from the third century A.D.

Cuban Executes 3 Reported As U.S. CIA Agents

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban authorities announced today the execution of three men officialy described as agents of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

A firing squad was reported to have shot down Rolando Mateos Paz, Manuel Marrero Castillo and his brother Francisco Marrero Castillo at dawn Friday in Las Villas province, in central Cuba.

The site of the execution was not specified.

In Washington, the State Department declined to comment. There also was no comment from the CIA.

The announcement, carried by the Havana press and radio, said a revolutionary court convicted the three of being members of an infiltration group that landed in Cuba July 22 carrying CIA instructions on sabotage.

The evidence was said to include these instructions, plus arms, ammunition and money seized from the group.

Man Enters Insanity Plea In Slaying Case

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—John J. Chapman, 40, accused of first-degree murder in the slaying of his girl friend, Betty May Miller last month, pleaded innocent today by reason of insanity.

He made the plea before Common Pleas Court Judge Merlin C. Parent of Fairfield County.

have said they will call an immediate strike once the rules changes are posted.

At the core of the dispute are the jobs of about 32,000 firemen on yard engines and freight trains. The railroads say they are no longer needed. The unions contend they are essential for efficient and safe operations.

The number of men—conductors and brakemen—to be assigned to train crews is the other chief item in disagreement.

President Kennedy proposed turning the dilemma over to the Interstate Commerce Commission, which would decide work-rules issues for a two-year interim while the parties continued negotiations for a permanent settlement. Except for holding hearings, Congress has been slow to act.

Lisbon Man Cited In Twin Wrecks

LISBON — Edward Heim, 66, of 897 N. Market St., was cited for driving while intoxicated Friday about 7 p.m. after his car struck two others within a seven-block area, police reported.

Heim backed out of the Heim Sheet Metal, Inc., at 525 E. Chestnut St., and struck the parked car of Harry Seroga, 530 E. Chestnut St. Police said Heim continued west on E. Chestnut to the intersection of N. Market St., where he tried to turn right and hit the southbound car of Harold Wherry of Lisbon R.D. 2, who had stopped to turn into E. Chestnut.

Heim then either backed or drifted backwards into E. Chestnut over the curb and sidewalk, striking a stop sign and tree and coming to rest against wall of the First Presbyterian Church, police said.

They estimated $350 damages to the Wherry car and about $300 to the Heim car. No one was injured but Wherry's wife and five children were in his car. Heim was alone.

Heim's hearing was set for Monday at 8 p.m. before Mayor Dean Stockman.

BERLIN (AP) — Two hundred West Berliners gathered at the Red Wall today and paid tribute to Peter Fechter, a young East Berliner shot down a year ago trying to escape.

The crowd watched as Maj. Gen. James H. Polk, U.S. Berlin commandant, and Mayor Willy Brandt laid wreaths at the Fechter memorial a few feet from where he was shot near U.S. Checkpoint Charlie.

Dozens of East Berliners, living near the spot where the 18-year-old construction worker was cut down by Red submachine gun bullets, peered from behind curtains as Polk and Brandt stood silently for one minute with their heads bowed.

The simple wooden cross was flanked by four, black-draped pylons carrying flaming torches on the top. West Berlin policemen stood honor guard.

A number of East German border guards were patrolling the Wall, while others observed the ceremony through holes in the wall of the bombed-out building just across from the memorial.

In anticipation of anti-Communist demonstrations that could easily turn into rioting, police cordoned off the Checkpoint Charlie area.

Only a few persons at a time were allowed to pass through police lines near the memorial.

Fechter was gunned down by border guards Aug. 17, 1962, when he and a fellow worked tried to scale the wall.

While his friend made it to West Berlin, Fechter was hit in the back, standing on top of the wall. He toppled backward and lay bleeding for nearly an hour before the East Germans carried him away. He died on route to a hospital.

West Berlins were furious over the slaying. There was considerable criticism of U.S. authorities for not ordering their troops to go to Fechter's rescue.

Woman Refugee Declares Cuba Becoming 'Shoeless'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—"Cuba is becoming a shoeless nation," a woman refugee who escaped Fidel Castro kidnapers said today.

"Shoes are getting scarcer all the time and thousands in Cuba are barefoot, especially children," Mrs. Olga de Hernandez reported.

Several members of her party, including her three children, wore shoes for the first time in months. Her son, Reogelio, celebrated his 12th birthday today with shoes.

Havana butchers Domingo Gonzalez and Gabriel Bolanos looked uncomfortable but natty in sporty brown oxfords to which they were unaccustomed.

They were outfitted with the shoes after visiting the Cuban refugee center along with others of the party of 10 that eluded Castro gunboats earlier this week on British-owned Anguilla Cay. They had landed there after fleeing their countries.

Bolanos grinned as his Zapatos Spanish for shoes) squeaked. He remarked, "This is great, one person in 10 in Cuba is without shoes or has some ragged things that hardly could be called shoes."

Mrs. Hernandez, who said that she and her family hid behind bushes and prayed when the Castro raiders arrived at the island, said they fled Cuba because "life there has become miserable."

"We don't even have freedom of worship," said the slender, worry-lined woman of 33.

"One night recently," she related, "three youths with guns in holsters and open shirts invaded the Matanzas Presbyterian church while the congregation sang hymns.

"Our pastor told us to keep on singing which we did. Then the pastor spoke. The invaders left but shouted through the windows 'viva Fidel, viva Fidel'."

Scareities are multiplying, Mrs. Hernandez reported.

Cubans complain, she said, about insufficient and poor quality rice. This cereal is eaten at least twice daily by Cubans.

Mrs. Hernandez and other escapees said Russians are everywhere in Cuba.

"We were tired of seeing them," she declared.

Her husband, Francisco, who left Cuba last December for Miami and returned to get his family, remarked, "We thank God for this, but something must be done about the 19 who were snatched back. That kind of thing is an example of life under Communism."

Gay Street Fair In New York City Erupts Into Riot

NEW YORK (AP)—What started out as a gay street fair in the Bronx Friday night erupted into a riot, touched off by the accidental shooting of a girl in the leg.

About 500 persons, mostly Puerto Ricans, were on hand for the affair, sponsored by two Spanish-language papers, when two men got into an argument.

One of the men fired a pistol, the bullet striking 13-year-old Blanca Hernandez. Ippolito Figeuroa, 33, who fired the shot, fled. He was shot in the leg by a patrolman.

Benny Irrizarry, 38, punched a patrolman in the face, and he was subdued after a short struggle.

The crowd, many of whom assembled on rooftops, heaved bottles, bricks and firecrackers at a riot squad of about 20 policemen. Police fired at least 30 warning shots to clear the roofs of hostile onlookers.

Still Stops Them

ROME (AP) — An old Hercules stopped a new bulldozer on a road outside Rome. The bulldozer was flattening a hump of earth when the blade bit hard below the road and stopped. Workmen with shovels uncovered a heavy sarcophagus carved with a figure of Hercules. Archeologists dated the find from the third century A.D.

Cuban Executes 3 Reported As U.S. CIA Agents

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban authorities announced today the execution of three men officialy described as agents of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

A firing squad was reported to have shot down Rolando Mateos Paz, Manuel Marrero Castillo and his brother Francisco Marrero Castillo at dawn Friday in Las Villas province, in central Cuba.

The site of the execution was not specified.

In Washington, the State Department declined to comment. There also was no comment from the CIA.

The announcement, carried by the Havana press and radio, said a revolutionary court convicted the three of being members of an infiltration group that landed in Cuba July 22 carrying CIA instructions on sabotage.

The evidence was said to include these instructions, plus arms, ammunition and money seized from the group.

Man Enters Insanity Plea In Slaying Case

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—John J. Chapman, 40, accused of first-degree murder in the slaying of his girl friend, Betty May Miller last month, pleaded innocent today by reason of insanity.

He made the plea before Common Pleas Court Judge Merlin C. Parent of Fairfield County.

have said they will call an immediate strike once the rules changes are posted.

At the core of the dispute are the jobs of about 32,000 firemen on yard engines and freight trains. The railroads say they are no longer needed. The unions contend they are essential for efficient and safe operations.

The number of men—conductors and brakemen—to be assigned to train crews is the other chief item in disagreement.

President Kennedy proposed turning the dilemma over to the Interstate Commerce Commission, which would decide work-rules issues for a two-year interim while the parties continued negotiations for a permanent settlement. Except for holding hearings, Congress has been slow to act.

Lisbon Man Cited In Twin Wrecks

LISBON — Edward Heim, 66, of 897 N. Market St., was cited for driving while intoxicated Friday about 7 p.m. after his car struck two others within a seven-block area, police reported.

Heim backed out of the Heim Sheet Metal, Inc., at 525 E. Chestnut St., and struck the parked car of Harry Seroga, 530 E. Chestnut St. Police said Heim continued west on E. Chestnut to the intersection of N. Market St., where he tried to turn right and hit the southbound car of Harold Wherry of Lisbon R.D. 2, who had stopped to turn into E. Chestnut.

Heim then either backed or drifted backwards into E. Chestnut over the curb and sidewalk, striking a stop sign and tree and coming to rest against wall of the First Presbyterian Church, police said.

They estimated $350 damages to the Wherry car and about $300 to the Heim car. No one was injured but Wherry's wife and five children were in his car. Heim was alone.

Heim's hearing was set for Monday at 8 p.m. before Mayor Dean Stockman.

The American was brought back to the Soviet ship, where a doctor took stitches in Lavallee's cut chin and swabbed bruises around his eyes.

A crewman doffed his clothes and gave them to Lavallee in place of his drenched uniform.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I clean a vinegar cruet that has become cloudy and has an accumulation of mineral deposit in the bottom?

A. Fill the cruet with water, add a little ammonia, and let stand for several hours, or overnight. Then rinse with clear, hot water.

Q. What is a good homemade solution for cleaning painted walls?

A. Combine two ounces of borax, one teaspoon of ammonia, and two quarts of water. You'll need no soap. Apply with a soft cloth.

Q. What can I do about scorch stains on garments?

A. If not too serious and if treated in time, some scorch stains can be nicely removed. On white shirts, sponge with a cloth dipped in peroxide, then iron again. Or, cover the spot with a cloth dipped in peroxide, put a dry cloth on top of that, and iron. On heavier materials, those containing wool, wet the areas with water, sprinkle with cornstarch, and rub the cornstarch well in. When absolutely dry, brush the powder off.

Ex-Dictator Awaits Trial In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Ex-dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez was held in a luxury cell of Venezuela's main penitentiary today, awaiting trial on charges of embezzling millions during his term in office.

With the dubious distinction of being the first former chief of state extradited from the United States, Perez Jimenez was flown by chartered plane from Miami, Fla., to a heavily guarded Venezuelan air force base on Friday.

Surrounded by detectives in eight patrol cars and national guardsmen in three trucks, he was sped to the prison at San Juan de los Morros, 50 miles southwest of Caracas.

Permitted under Venezuelan law to enjoy any prison comforts he can pay for, Perez Jimenez had a special, air-conditioned, isolated cell equipped with a television set waiting for him.

In a recent court suit in Miami, it was alleged that the former dictator was worth at least $700 million.

President Romulo Betancourt, who had sought since 1959 to get Perez Jimenez extradited, claims that during the ex-dictator's term in office, from December 1952 to January 1958, he stole at least $13 million and that many more embezzlements may show up.

Perez Jimenez lived in a Miami Beach villa after he left Venezuela until his arrest and transfer to the Dade County, Fla., jail eight months ago. He was held there in a 6-by 10-foot solitary confinement cell. Justice Arthur Goldberg of the U.S. Supreme Court cleared the way for extradition by turning down Perez Jimenez' appeal for a stay as being without merit.

The extradition move was taken under a treaty signed by Venezuela and the United States in 1922.

The pudgy 49-year-old politician smiled wanly as he entered the plane.

He showed no emotion as he entered the penitentiary.

His wife Flor, shaken by the development, remained in the mansion at Miami under sedation.

State Board Cites Barnett On 'Politics'

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Ross Barnett stood accused today of "playing politics" that could have cost every college in the state its accreditation.

Five members of the state college board hurled the accusation in explaining why they voted against Barnett's effort to oust Negro student James H. Meredith from the University of Mississippi before he can graduate Sunday.

The five said the last ditch move against Meredith was an oblique effort to hurt a candidate for governor, J.P. Coleman.

They referred to a Jackson anti-Coleman newspaper story which blamed the board's 6-5 vote against Barnett on appointees named by former governors Coleman and Hugh White.

"The situation has once again been used for political purposes, as the article in the (Jackson) Clarion-Ledger very clearly shows," the five said.

"If the board had denied Meredith his diploma then every young man and woman in this state would have been left without an accredited college, university or medical school to attend this year, so far as the state universities and colleges are concerned," they added.

They referred to the fact that the state schools already were on probation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools due to previous "political interference."

The sixth man in the vote against Barnett was out of the state and was not part of the joint explanatory statement issued by the five.

Appeal Sent Kennedy On Crisis In Viet

HUE, Viet Nam (AP)—Pressure for world intervention in South Viet Nam's Buddhist crisis mounted today with warnings from Buddhist leaders in Saigon that more fiery suicides and bloodshed are imminent.

They cabled pleas to President Kennedy, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant and Buddhist organizations for some outside brake to the South Viet Nam government's alleged treatment of Buddhists.

The cables detailed burnings, hunger strike and demonstrations and claimed "the government ignores all this because President Diem is ill advised by people about him."

They added "other sacrifices are imminent, despite our interdiction and other mass demonstrations with bloodshed are in prospect."

R.S.S. Gunewardene, Ceylon's chief delegate the United Nations, announced that he expects to ask for a special session of the U.N. general Assembly to deal with the situation.

His country is principally Buddhist and he himself is a Buddhist.

He told newsmen that he had conferred with Thant, who also is a Buddhist from Burma, and would talk to delegates of other Buddhist countries before he makes a formal request for the session next Tuesday.

In Hue, quiet followed the suicide burning of a 71-year-old monk, the fifth in a series of protest immolations.

The government lifted the martial law it imposed Friday and removed the barricades around Hue's Tu Dam pagoda. Five thousand Buddhist followers quickly packed into the courtyard to contemplate the spot of Friday's suicide.

The charred body lay in a coffin surrounded by barbed wire at the pagoda. It was a precaution against government police snatching the body as they did the remains of the young novice monk who burned himself to death outside Hue on Tuesday.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 21-year-old Lockbourne Air Force Base Airman 3.c Raymond W. Howaniak of Cleveland died in University Hospital today of head injuries suffered Friday night when he fell from a truck at the base.

A base spokesman said Howaniak and five other men were picked up by a military truck after they had completed guard duty in the tanker alert area. Howaniak apparently tumbled from the truck as he was checking the tailgate.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I clean a vinegar cruet that has become cloudy and has an accumulation of mineral deposit in the bottom?

A. Fill the cruet with water, add a little ammonia, and let stand for several hours, or overnight. Then rinse with clear, hot water.

Q. What is a good homemade solution for cleaning painted walls?

A. Combine two ounces of borax, one teaspoon of ammonia, and two quarts of water. You'll need no soap. Apply with a soft cloth.

Q. What can I do about scorch stains on garments?

A. If not too serious and if treated in time, some scorch stains can be nicely removed. On white shirts, sponge with a cloth dipped in peroxide, then iron again. Or, cover the spot with a cloth dipped in peroxide, put a dry cloth on top of that, and iron. On heavier materials, those containing wool, wet the areas with water, sprinkle with cornstarch, and rub the cornstarch well in. When absolutely dry, brush the powder off.

Ex-Dictator Awaits Trial In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Ex-dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez was held in a luxury cell of Venezuela's main penitentiary today, awaiting trial on charges of embezzling millions during his term in office.

With the dubious distinction of being the first former chief of state extradited from the United States, Perez Jimenez was flown by chartered plane from Miami, Fla., to a heavily guarded Venezuelan air force base on Friday.

Surrounded by detectives in eight patrol cars and national guardsmen in three trucks, he was sped to the prison at San Juan de los Morros, 50 miles southwest of Caracas.

Permitted under Venezuelan law to enjoy any prison comforts he can pay for, Perez Jimenez had a special, air-conditioned, isolated cell equipped with a television set waiting for him.

In a recent court suit in Miami, it was alleged that the former dictator was worth at least $700 million.

President Romulo Betancourt, who had sought since 1959 to get Perez Jimenez extradited, claims that during the ex-dictator's term in office, from December 1952 to January 1958, he stole at least $13 million and that many more embezzlements may show up.

Perez Jimenez lived in a Miami Beach villa after he left Venezuela until his arrest and transfer to the Dade County, Fla., jail eight months ago. He was held there in a 6-by 10-foot solitary confinement cell. Justice Arthur Goldberg of the U.S. Supreme Court cleared the way for extradition by turning down Perez Jimenez' appeal for a stay as being without merit.

The extradition move was taken under a treaty signed by Venezuela and the United States in 1922.

The pudgy 49-year-old politician smiled wanly as he entered the plane.

He showed no emotion as he entered the penitentiary.

His wife Flor, shaken by the development, remained in the mansion at Miami under sedation.

State Board Cites Barnett On 'Politics'

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Ross Barnett stood accused today of "playing politics" that could have cost every college in the state its accreditation.

Five members of the state college board hurled the accusation in explaining why they voted against Barnett's effort to oust Negro student James H. Meredith from the University of Mississippi before he can graduate Sunday.

The five said the last ditch move against Meredith was an oblique effort to hurt a candidate for governor, J.P. Coleman.

They referred to a Jackson anti-Coleman newspaper story which blamed the board's 6-5 vote against Barnett on appointees named by former governors Coleman and Hugh White.

"The situation has once again been used for political purposes, as the article in the (Jackson) Clarion-Ledger very clearly shows," the five said.

"If the board had denied Meredith his diploma then every young man and woman in this state would have been left without an accredited college, university or medical school to attend this year, so far as the state universities and colleges are concerned," they added.

They referred to the fact that the state schools already were on probation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools due to previous "political interference."

The sixth man in the vote against Barnett was out of the state and was not part of the joint explanatory statement issued by the five.

Appeal Sent Kennedy On Crisis In Viet

HUE, Viet Nam (AP)—Pressure for world intervention in South Viet Nam's Buddhist crisis mounted today with warnings from Buddhist leaders in Saigon that more fiery suicides and bloodshed are imminent.

They cabled pleas to President Kennedy, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant and Buddhist organizations for some outside brake to the South Viet Nam government's alleged treatment of Buddhists.

The cables detailed burnings, hunger strike and demonstrations and claimed "the government ignores all this because President Diem is ill advised by people about him."

They added "other sacrifices are imminent, despite our interdiction and other mass demonstrations with bloodshed are in prospect."

R.S.S. Gunewardene, Ceylon's chief delegate the United Nations, announced that he expects to ask for a special session of the U.N. general Assembly to deal with the situation.

His country is principally Buddhist and he himself is a Buddhist.

He told newsmen that he had conferred with Thant, who also is a Buddhist from Burma, and would talk to delegates of other Buddhist countries before he makes a formal request for the session next Tuesday.

In Hue, quiet followed the suicide burning of a 71-year-old monk, the fifth in a series of protest immolations.

The government lifted the martial law it imposed Friday and removed the barricades around Hue's Tu Dam pagoda. Five thousand Buddhist followers quickly packed into the courtyard to contemplate the spot of Friday's suicide.

The charred body lay in a coffin surrounded by barbed wire at the pagoda. It was a precaution against government police snatching the body as they did the remains of the young novice monk who burned himself to death outside Hue on Tuesday.

Problem Child South Of The Border

The Alliance for Progress, hailed at its birth in Punta del Este as an economic wonder that would firm up U.S.-Latin American relations, is two years old today.

It's doubtful that anyone on either side of the border will mark the anniversary with more than disdain or disillusionment.

Despite a 10-year, $20 billion U.S. nourishment provision, the wonder child is sickly and spoiled.

At the birth ritual two years ago, the United States and 19 Latin nations mapped a fruitful life for the infant alliance. It would, they hoped, bring about broad economic, social and cultural improvements in Latin America.

To date, the growth record is dismal and the parents must share the blame.

CHIEF COMPLAINT from south of the border is that the wonder child has all but choked to death on U.S. red tape and bureaucracy.

Although there is some justification for the charge, the Latin nations have done little to keep the alliance healthy.

Only 6 of the 19 signing nations—Bolivia, Chile, Colombia, Mexico, Peru and Venezuela—have drafted workable 10-year development plans. Self-help projects and land and tax reforms are lacking in most participating nations.

Little of the cash this country has doled out has been used to nurture the alliance program. A $398 million loan and aid package went to Brazil last March and about $84 million of it was used as "walking around" money to bail out the cruzeiro, Brazil's shaky gold monetary unit.

Argentina, second largest country in South America, recorded more bankruptcies last year than at any time in her modern history. Yet even with $150 million credits pledged by the United States, the Argentine government has failed to complete plans for public works and self-help projects estimated to cost $81 million.

Mexico has received $20 million for small farm development but the farmers haven't seen it. Why? Mexican banks through which the money must flow aren't set up to make individual loans.

SO YOU BEGIN to wonder how much good will we're buying or if we're getting anything but headaches in return for the $20 billion pledged to keep the alliance alive.

President Kennedy admitted early this month that he's "depressed" at the lack of progress but wants to keep trying.

But unless the Latinos themselves start showing some regard for the program and until it shows signs of maturing into something better than a freak, Congress would do well to consider a cut in the nourishment.

The Latin American share of the foreign aid bill would be a logical place to start the weaning.

Watch Out For Backfires

A reported hoax and a former Communist are involved in separate incidents that must have conscientious civil rights leaders in a tizzy.

In California, a young mother disclosed that she was tarred and feathered and left in a burning house as a hoax to help integrate an all-white neighborhood.

In Cleveland, it was disclosed that a former Communist has hired two buses for the Negro march on Washington Aug. 28.

Both disclosures could give the civil rights movement a big setback.

Nothing discredits a campaign of any kind more than a lie. And if law enforcement officials substantiate that the Walnut, Calif., incident was, indeed, a hoax, then the civil rights movement will have suffered.

Americans, regardless of the color of their skin, don't cotton to hoaxes, especially when laws are broken in the process.

The Cleveland disclosure puts a Red tinge on the Aug. 28 march because of a former Communist. If he no longer has Communist connections, as the Congress of Racial Racial Equality (CORE) claims, all well and good.

But the fact remains that he served a federal prison term on conspiracy charges under the Taft-Hartley Act and his motives in the Negro march automatically become suspect.

Communists thrive on unrest and turmoil and there is certainly a degree of both in the forthcoming Washington demonstration. There is every reason to expect Communists and Communist sympathizers to capitalize on the march. If they infiltrate, the risk of violence becomes greater than it ordinarily would be in a demonstration of this sort.

All of which means that leaders of the capital march will have to exercise extreme vigilance to keep the demonstration from backfiring horribly.

Outdoing The Boss

A memo from State Auditor Roger Tracy indicates Ohio's drive for governmental economy may be producing some healthy cost-cutting competition among officeholders.

Tracy announced he cut the auditor's office payroll cost from $721,189 to $630,486—a saving of $90,703—during his first six months on the job.

That's interesting, considering that the man Tracy succeeded in the job is known as the father of the austerity program—former auditor and now governor, James A. Rhodes.

Some Notes On Nature

The time has come, news stories warn, to think of many things? Of the sneezin' season, hurricanes and September thunderstorms, as Lewis Carroll might have said if he had written about nature instead of sealing wax and kings.

From now through mid-September is the worst period of the year, lightning-wise, say the weather experts.

Those who deal with the Jovian fireworks advise that we can learn to enjoy nature's fireworks if we learn how to minimize the chances of being the target of the bolts.

When a storm looms, find safe shelter. Avoid trees standing alone and if things get too hot in your vicinity—lie down and stay down until the threat passes.

Keep away from indoor electric wiring and metal surfaces. The center of the house usually is best.

Don't use or handle electrical appliances. Shun the phone.

Don't swim. Don't fish.

Any steel-shafted tool or club makes you, if in the open, a prime target.

If a live wire falls on your car when you are in it, wait until the danger is removed or you are able to drive away befor getting out of the auto.

As a final bit of advice, the experts urge you to keep calm, cool and collected—but they don't say how.

On the subject of hay fever, it may be small comfort to thousands of sufferers to learn that pollen isn't all bad.

Scientists now tell us that billions upon billions of microscopic specs of pollen and spores which fell to earth millions of years ago enable palynologists to read the age of rock layers thus enabling us to find oil deposits.

And in a world that runs on oil, that's nothing to sneeze at.

Letter From Max

Dear Truman Twill:

The paper the other day had another one of those articles predicting how wonderful it would be in the year 2000, a scant 37 years from now.

These big men said that in 37 years space travel would be common, no more dishwashing, no more common cold, everything hotsy-totsy and nothing topsy-turvey, to borrow one of your phrases.

Well, Twill, I hope you'll excuse me because I've heard that one before. Such talk is more than I can stand and I think I'll excuse myself from the room because of a headache, coughing spell or upset stomach.

REMEMBER 37 years ago how they predicted in the 1960s we'd have space travel, no more dishwashing, no more common cold, and everything would be hotsy-totsy and nothing topsy-turvy?

Just to give you an idea of how bad things can get in this miracle age of 1963: both our television set and automobile went kaput on the same day. You'd have thought it was the end of the world.

You don't have to be told how it is in the 1960s.

The roof gets a hidden leak which can't be found.

Lipstick still makes an indelible stain on your shirt collar.

Ladies still take from one to two hours to do their hair in curlers.

Daily shaving is still one of our unpleasant chores.

The faucet still leaks in the bathroom.

If you don't get the handle just right on the water closet it sounds like Niagara Falls.

The paint on the downspouts is peeling.

Hickory trees have about vanished and elm trees are following them into oblivion.

Starlings are displacing the sparrows.

Crab grass and dandelions thrive on combat.

TRAFFIC accidents are increasing.

Last winter was the worst since 1888.

Detergent foam is clogging our sewer plants and streams.

You can't find a parking place on the street anymore.

We are getting balder, if that's possible.

Unemployment is increasing with technology.

Crime is increasing.

There is no easy way to pluck a duck.

Davenports still sag after a few short years of use.

All the "lifetime" gadgets like razors and light bulbs last about a month or year, if you're lucky.

There is no easy way to mash potatoes.

Shoestrings and eyeglasses still break. To say nothing of fingernails.

The cord on the electric iron blows out every three months.

The fireplace smokes when the wind isn't right.

Storage space in the attic is almost gone.

And our guess is that the year 2000 won't be much different.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

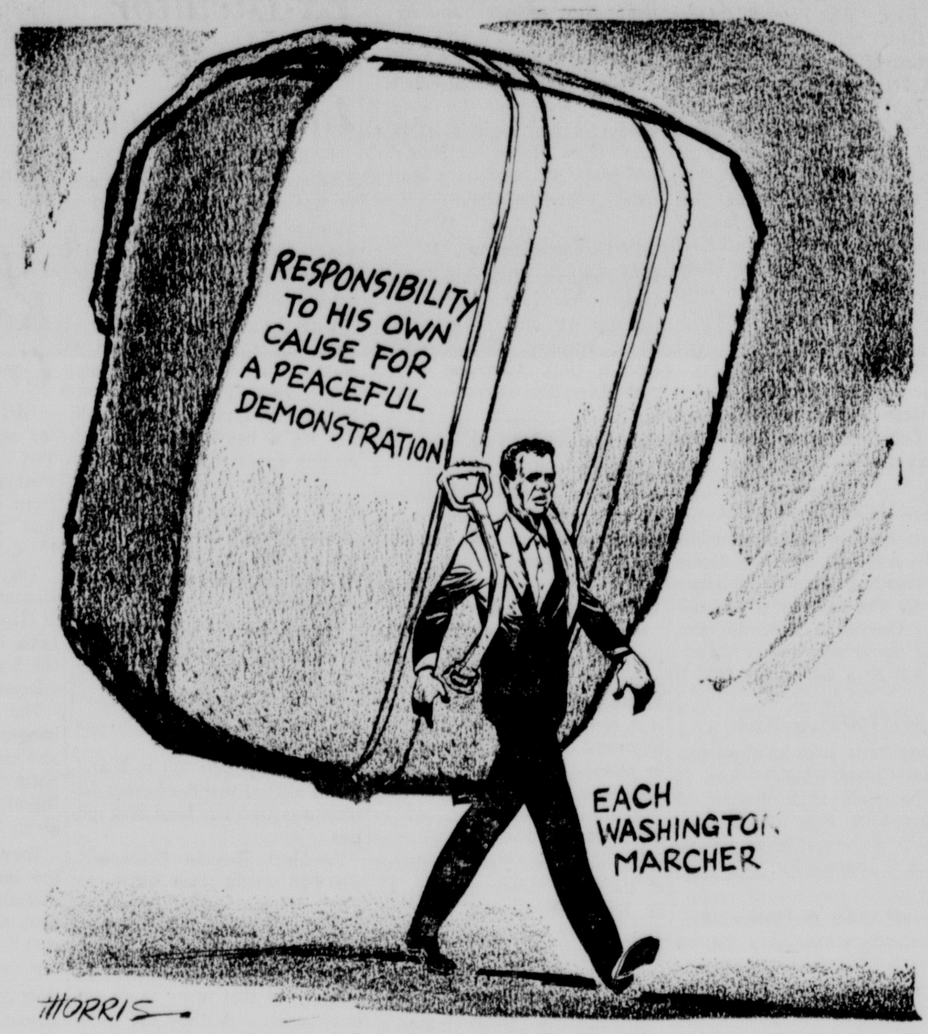
No Small Burden



Who Is Protecting The Communists?

By Victor Riesel

SANTOS, BRAZIL

This is the untold story of the Communist "sharks" and some mighty poor "catfish" in this "little Moscow" of South America. The "sharks" are the stevedores of Santos, coffee port of the world, which must always remain open if Brazil, with its 76 million people, is to avoid choking to death economically. Directors of the Soviet's global aparatus marked this port as its prime objective because more than 40 percent of Brazil's imports and half its exports pass over these crowded docks.

Victor Riesel

Not too long ago, the Communist organizers took over the 3,000-member stevedores' union — the men who go on the freighters to unload them.

The Communists also control the dockworkers, the strategic coffee handlers and "sackers." But the powerful stevedores are the key to Communist control of much of this port city, which the ultra-leftists can shut down in 15 minutes.

THE STEVEDORES follow the Communists because of the latter's influence in high government circles. Some months ago the Communists revealed how powerful that connection has been.

This came during a fight between the "sharks" and the "catfish" which is not yet finished. The Communist "sharks" got their nickname from the fact that they are among the highest paid people in Brazil. These stevedore "sharks" get more than many army generals and political officeholders.

Stevedores' pay runs as high as $300 a month — an enormous sum here equivalent to almost $1,500 a month back in the United States.

The stevedores don't overwork themselves either. There have been as many as 150 unloaded ships standing by for 45 costly days awaiting a chance to get to a pier.

At this moment there are some 100 in the harbor. The stevedores just take their time turning a ship "around."

They are called the "sharks" because they are tough and get all the good pickings. Furthermore, they do not even have to work for their money. Each "shark" can hire a substitute from among a standby force of 1,300 "catfish" — impoverished workers eager to pick up a few pennies.

THE "SHARKS" only work when they want to and always turn up their noses at odious and heavy cargo handling. The substitutes are called "catfish" because they get the leavings from the sharks.

The "catfish" who do the "sharks" work are paid directly by the sharks. The "catfish" get $25 a month from the "sharks" who keep the rest of the full pay for themselves. Real lovers of humanity, those Communist "sharks."

Last year, 270 of the "catfish" got together and demanded admission to the union. The stevedores turned them down flatly for two reasons. First, the "sharks" did not want other workers to share in the huge incomes from cargo unloading. Second, if the entire batch of 1,300 "catfish" got into the union they would undoubtedly vote against the Communists.

So the 270 "catfish" took their demand to court. A courageous judge ruled in their favor. He directed the Communist leadership to admit the 270 applicants.

THE STEVEDORES simply ignored the court decision. The angry judge drew up an order directing the union to admit the "catfish." Then he told the local police to serve the document on the union.

There was talk of violence, general strikes and retaliation. But the judge insisted. However, the Communists got to their friends in the capital.

The Brazilian government dispatched a warship loaded with marines. When the navy vessel got to Santos the marines deployed around the docks and the union. The police were prevented from serving the paper. The case went to a higher court, while the government in effect protected the Communist - controlled union.

This was last October. A few weeks ago the higher court ruled in favor of the "catfish." However, they still are not in the union.

But even if some "catfish" do get into the union, the Communist "sharks" will not have to share either the loot or power over the clogged docks — the lifeline of southern Brazil and therefore of virtually all Brazil.

THE LABOR MINISTER appears to have made certain that the "sharks" will retain control of the union. How did he do it? He went down to Santos. He cancelled the work permits of the 1,000 "catfish" who had not gone into court.

Thus, even if the 270 finally do get their own union cards, there will be no other "catfish" who can work on the ocean freighters coming into this port. No man can be employed in any capacity without such a work permit.

So the Communists will continue to dominate the port. The harbor will remain clogged. Because of slowdowns supplies desperately needed by Brazil's industry will trickle, not pour, in.

Brazil, covering half of South America, is vital to the existence of the free world.

Therefore this world of ours certainly deserves an answer to one question: Exactly who is protecting the Communists?

Through The Years

THIRTY YEARS AGO — More than 125 attended the annual reunion of the Conkle family at Rock Springs. W. C. Conkle of Hookstown was named president.

Mrs. Albert D. Jones of Park Blvd. addressed members of the East End Negro League.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — D. S. Craig of Chester served as president during the reunion of the Swearingen-Strouss family at the Mill Creek Church.

George C. Porter was elected commander of the John Welsch American Legion Post in Lisbon.

The Rev. Stanley Pugh, former Chester resident, assumed his duties as pastor of the Oakland Free Methodist Church.

TEN YEARS AGO — Charles Schell was named to succeed Tom Carroll as president of the Kiwanis Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stewart of Hookstown returned home after a month's vacation in Canada.

The Koran

The world's most influential book, after the Bible, is the Koran.

The family of Islam numbers about 434 million individuals, the National Geographic Society says. And it is the duty of every Moslem man, woman and child, within personal limitations, to memorize as much of their holy book as possible.

Yet Westerners know little about the Koran's contents, because translations are rare. Translators approach it with extreme caution.

Moslems hold that the words of the holy book—which govern every moral and civil action of a believer — were transmitted from God directly to the prophet Mohammed some 1,350 years ago. The phraseology may not be altered, and translations are never used in mosques.

A Turkish translation of the Koran was in the works for almost four decades before its publication in 1961.

More On The Treaty

By David Lawrence

Strange Arguments Are Being Made

More puzzling than any of the words themselves in the pending treaty limiting nuclear tests are the strange arguments being made urging its ratification.

David Lawrence

The Joint Chiefs of Staff, who represent the military judgment on which the security of the country is customarily based, say frankly that they have had their doubts but that, on the whole, they now think the disadvantages in ratifying the treaty are outweighed by the advantages. They insist, however, that the United States not only carry on a vigorous program of underground testing but that it stay ready on short notice to resume atmospheric testing if the Soviets abrogate the treaty.

All this is difficult for the average person to understand, and many members of Congress have wondered whether political pressure has been applied to persuade the joint chiefs to support the treaty.

In fact, in a Senate committee hearing this week, the question was asked if the joint chiefs responded to "pressure."

This was emphatically denied but the mere raising of the question indicates that in the back of the minds of some senators is a feeling that the high military officers do not dare to incur disfavor. Indeed, recently a chief of naval operations was not reappointed and, while it was denied that he was punished for expressing his views before Congress on a controversial issue, the idea prevails that he did disagree with the administration and paid the penalty.

THE CAMPAIGN to get the treaty ratified is typical of what happens when a political issue is involved, but it is not characteristic of the kind of discussion that usually takes place when purely military matters are being considered. It's doubtful whether any high military man would venture openly to question the wisdom of ratifying the nuclear-test treaty.

Another puzzling development is the attitude of the nuclear scientists. While a larger number favor ratification, it's significant that Dr. Edward Teller, often referred to as the "father of the hydrogen bomb," is vehement in his opposition. Efforts are being made by the administration to pooh-pooh his objections as of secondary importance, but his testimony—just published—has served to increase the doubts prevalent on Capitol Hill.

Dr. Teller says that testing in the atmosphere is important in order to catch up with the techniques in which the Soviets are ahead of the United States. He says that nuclear explosions in the air are the key to developing missile defenses.

If the Soviets feel they are at an advantage, they can threaten attack and gain political concessions by such a threat.

They could invade small countries at will, knowing they would not be risking war with the United States. So, Dr. Teller insists, tests in the atmosphere and in outer space are absolutely essential to America's future safety.

THERE IS considerable speculation as to why the Moscow government reversed its previous decisions and suddenly decided to go ahead with a plan it had early rejected.

It's suggested that the Soviet experts may be planning someday to mount a mock attack by, say, 500 missiles high over Russia and counter the attack with a display of their anti-missile defense system.

Dr. Teller thinks they might even invite American experts to watch the test. If the test happened to fail, the Russians would have lost only the treaty, but he thinks that, if the scheme worked, they would then be able to say: "Now, you see we have an excellent defense and can absorb any attack you can send against us. There is the proof. Now please do this and that, etc."

On this point alone—inhibiting U.S. development of a missile defense—Dr. Teller feels the treaty is dangerous to the United States.

Secretary of Defense McNamara, in his testimony before a Senate committee this week, said:

"And probably more important than purely military implications, the treaty should provide us with an opportunity to test the sincerity of Soviet protestations about their desire to explore more sweeping arrangements for preserving the peace. It provides us with this opportunity at a minimum risk. . . .

"I do not pretend that this or any other agreement between great contending powers can be risk-free. This one is not."

THE SECRETARY feels that America possesses the power of a devastating retaliatory attack that could destroy Russia.

America can rely on that potential power, however, only as long as the Soviets do not develop a system whereby missiles from the United States or its bases on land or underwater are intercepted and nuclear materials are disintegrated in flight. That's the true worry of the scientists who disagree about approving any treaty while it halts testing in the atmosphere.

As for fears of "fallout," testimony has been given that these claims have been exaggerated and that the radioactive substances which drop from the air after nuclear tests have not been anywhere near the maximum limits at which the nuclear "fallout" becomes dangerous to mankind.

So the whole issue is far from clear and probably many weeks of debate in the Senate will ensue before final action is taken.

Roll Out The Barrel

By Dennis Duggan

A faint but parched cheer rose from the crew and passengers of the Mayflower when that part of the Massachusetts Coastline, known as Plymouth, was sighted. The weary travelers decided to go no further because, as one diarist put it: "Our victuals being much spente, especially our beers. . ."

The dry - throated colonist couldn't have known it at the time but he, and his descendants, had come to the right place.

Last year, for instance, the United States led the world in beer barrel production with 96.9 billion barrels. West Germany was a distant second with 52.9 billion barrels.

And at this point, a little past mid-summer of 1963, most of the big U.S. brewers are about as high on sales and earnings prospects as the heady brew they turn out sometimes makes their customers.

A survey of regional and national breweries shows that optimism is running as high as vat production.

In St. Louis, a metropolis which, along with Milwaukee and Cincinnati is often referred to as "brewing city," is up 4 per cent over last year.

"It's been an excellent summer," said the marketing director of a company which has breweries in Brooklyn, Albany, Cleveland and Baltimore. The company is reluctant to pass along figures but a spokesman said the company expected to hit a 4 million barrel figure this year. Last year it rolled out 3.7 million barrels.

"The hot weather has helped, of course," he said "but beer drinking is a 12-month thing now since the advent of television.

"We're keeping our fingers crossed," he added, "but if we don't have a cold or wet month in August we'll do very well."

A Brooklyn brewery expects to top last year's approximate $130 million in sales.

The company, which markets its beer in 12 Northeastern States, like most of the beer-makers, has found that new packaging techniques, such as easy-open caps, have stimulated customer appetites.

One of its most popular innovations has been the "chug-a-mug" container introduced in Binghampton, N.Y., and Hartford, Conn., last October. The container, which resembles a German stein, has a wide mouth with a self-opening top.

There is just one disquieting note that emerges from talks with the breweries. A hard core of milk drinkers still is holding fast.

In 1962, for instance, milk drinkers put away twice as much milk (32.1 gallons) as beer drinkers (15.1 gallons). Coffee drinkers also finished ahead of beer drinkers, consuming an average of 28.3 gallons.

Problem Child South Of The Border

The Alliance for Progress, hailed at its birth in Punta del Este as an economic wonder that would firm up U.S.-Latin American relations, is two years old today.

It's doubtful that anyone on either side of the border will mark the anniversary with more than disdain or disillusionment.

Despite a 10-year, $20 billion U.S. nourishment provision, the wonder child is sickly and spoiled.

At the birth ritual two years ago, the United States and 19 Latin nations mapped a fruitful life for the infant alliance. It would, they hoped, bring about broad economic, social and cultural improvements in Latin America.

To date, the growth record is dismal and the parents must share the blame.

CHIEF COMPLAINT from south of the border is that the wonder child has all but choked to death on U.S. red tape and bureaucracy.

Although there is some justification for the charge, the Latin nations have done little to keep the alliance healthy.

Only 6 of the 19 signing nations—Bolivia, Chile, Colombia, Mexico, Peru and Venezuela—have drafted workable 10-year development plans. Self-help projects and land and tax reforms are lacking in most participating nations.

Little of the cash this country has doled out has been used to nurture the alliance program. A $398 million loan and aid package went to Brazil last March and about $84 million of it was used as "walking around" money to bail out the cruzeiro, Brazil's shaky gold monetary unit.

Argentina, second largest country in South America, recorded more bankruptcies last year than at any time in her modern history. Yet even with $150 million credits pledged by the United States, the Argentine government has failed to complete plans for public works and self-help projects estimated to cost $81 million.

Mexico has received $20 million for small farm development but the farmers haven't seen it. Why? Mexican banks through which the money must flow aren't set up to make individual loans.

SO YOU BEGIN to wonder how much good will we're buying or if we're getting anything but headaches in return for the $20 billion pledged to keep the alliance alive.

President Kennedy admitted early this month that he's "depressed" at the lack of progress but wants to keep trying.

But unless the Latinos themselves start showing some regard for the program and until it shows signs of maturing into something better than a freak, Congress would do well to consider a cut in the nourishment.

The Latin American share of the foreign aid bill would be a logical place to start the weaning.

Watch Out For Backfires

A reported hoax and a former Communist are involved in separate incidents that must have conscientious civil rights leaders in a tizzy.

In California, a young mother disclosed that she was tarred and feathered and left in a burning house as a hoax to help integrate an all-white neighborhood.

In Cleveland, it was disclosed that a former Communist has hired two buses for the Negro march on Washington Aug. 28.

Both disclosures could give the civil rights movement a big setback.

Nothing discredits a campaign of any kind more than a lie. And if law enforcement officials substantiate that the Walnut, Calif., incident was, indeed, a hoax, then the civil rights movement will have suffered.

Americans, regardless of the color of their skin, don't cotton to hoaxes, especially when laws are broken in the process.

The Cleveland disclosure puts a Red tinge on the Aug. 28 march because of a former Communist. If he no longer has Communist connections, as the Congress of Racial Racial Equality (CORE) claims, all well and good.

But the fact remains that he served a federal prison term on conspiracy charges under the Taft-Hartley Act and his motives in the Negro march automatically become suspect.

Communists thrive on unrest and turmoil and there is certainly a degree of both in the forthcoming Washington demonstration. There is every reason to expect Communists and Communist sympathizers to capitalize on the march. If they infiltrate, the risk of violence becomes greater than it ordinarily would be in a demonstration of this sort.

All of which means that leaders of the capital march will have to exercise extreme vigilance to keep the demonstration from backfiring horribly.

Outdoing The Boss

A memo from State Auditor Roger Tracy indicates Ohio's drive for governmental economy may be producing some healthy cost-cutting competition among officeholders.

Tracy announced he cut the auditor's office payroll cost from $721,189 to $630,486—a saving of $90,703—during his first six months on the job.

That's interesting, considering that the man Tracy succeeded in the job is known as the father of the austerity program—former auditor and now governor, James A. Rhodes.

Some Notes On Nature

The time has come, news stories warn, to think of many things? Of the sneezin' season, hurricanes and September thunderstorms, as Lewis Carroll might have said if he had written about nature instead of sealing wax and kings.

From now through mid-September is the worst period of the year, lightning-wise, say the weather experts.

Those who deal with the Jovian fireworks advise that we can learn to enjoy nature's fireworks if we learn how to minimize the chances of being the target of the bolts.

When a storm looms, find safe shelter. Avoid trees standing alone and if things get too hot in your vicinity—lie down and stay down until the threat passes.

Keep away from indoor electric wiring and metal surfaces. The center of the house usually is best.

Don't use or handle electrical appliances. Shun the phone.

Don't swim. Don't fish.

Any steel-shafted tool or club makes you, if in the open, a prime target.

If a live wire falls on your car when you are in it, wait until the danger is removed or you are able to drive away befor getting out of the auto.

As a final bit of advice, the experts urge you to keep calm, cool and collected—but they don't say how.

On the subject of hay fever, it may be small comfort to thousands of sufferers to learn that pollen isn't all bad.

Scientists now tell us that billions upon billions of microscopic specs of pollen and spores which fell to earth millions of years ago enable palynologists to read the age of rock layers thus enabling us to find oil deposits.

And in a world that runs on oil, that's nothing to sneeze at.

Letter From Max

Dear Truman Twill:

The paper the other day had another one of those articles predicting how wonderful it would be in the year 2000, a scant 37 years from now.

These big men said that in 37 years space travel would be common, no more dishwashing, no more common cold, everything hotsy-totsy and nothing topsy-turvey, to borrow one of your phrases.

Well, Twill, I hope you'll excuse me because I've heard that one before. Such talk is more than I can stand and I think I'll excuse myself from the room because of a headache, coughing spell or upset stomach.

REMEMBER 37 years ago how they predicted in the 1960s we'd have space travel, no more dishwashing, no more common cold, and everything would be hotsy-totsy and nothing topsy-turvy?

Just to give you an idea of how bad things can get in this miracle age of 1963: both our television set and automobile went kaput on the same day. You'd have thought it was the end of the world.

You don't have to be told how it is in the 1960s.

The roof gets a hidden leak which can't be found.

Lipstick still makes an indelible stain on your shirt collar.

Ladies still take from one to two hours to do their hair in curlers.

Daily shaving is still one of our unpleasant chores.

The faucet still leaks in the bathroom.

If you don't get the handle just right on the water closet it sounds like Niagara Falls.

The paint on the downspouts is peeling.

Hickory trees have about vanished and elm trees are following them into oblivion.

Starlings are displacing the sparrows.

Crab grass and dandelions thrive on combat.

TRAFFIC accidents are increasing.

Last winter was the worst since 1888.

Detergent foam is clogging our sewer plants and streams.

You can't find a parking place on the street anymore.

We are getting balder, if that's possible.

Unemployment is increasing with technology.

Crime is increasing.

There is no easy way to pluck a duck.

Davenports still sag after a few short years of use.

All the "lifetime" gadgets like razors and light bulbs last about a month or year, if you're lucky.

There is no easy way to mash potatoes.

Shoestrings and eyeglasses still break. To say nothing of fingernails.

The cord on the electric iron blows out every three months.

The fireplace smokes when the wind isn't right.

Storage space in the attic is almost gone.

And our guess is that the year 2000 won't be much different.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

No Small Burden

Who Is Protecting The Communists?

By Victor Riesel

SANTOS, BRAZIL

This is the untold story of the Communist "sharks" and some mighty poor "catfish" in this "little Moscow" of South America. The "sharks" are the stevedores of Santos, coffee port of the world, which must always remain open if Brazil, with its 76 million people, is to avoid choking to death economically. Directors of the Soviet's global aparatus marked this port as its prime objective because more than 40 percent of Brazil's imports and half its exports pass over these crowded docks.

Victor Riesel

Not too long ago, the Communist organizers took over the 3,000-member stevedores' union — the men who go on the freighters to unload them.

The Communists also control the dockworkers, the strategic coffee handlers and "sackers." But the powerful stevedores are the key to Communist control of much of this port city, which the ultra-leftists can shut down in 15 minutes.

THE STEVEDORES follow the Communists because of the latter's influence in high government circles. Some months ago the Communists revealed how powerful that connection has been.

This came during a fight between the "sharks" and the "catfish" which is not yet finished. The Communist "sharks" got their nickname from the fact that they are among the highest paid people in Brazil. These stevedore "sharks" get more than many army generals and political officeholders.

Stevedores' pay runs as high as $300 a month — an enormous sum here equivalent to almost $1,500 a month back in the United States.

The stevedores don't overwork themselves either. There have been as many as 150 unloaded ships standing by for 45 costly days awaiting a chance to get to a pier.

At this moment there are some 100 in the harbor. The stevedores just take their time turning a ship "around."

They are called the "sharks" because they are tough and get all the good pickings. Furthermore, they do not even have to work for their money. Each "shark" can hire a substitute from among a standby force of 1,300 "catfish" — impoverished workers eager to pick up a few pennies.

THE "SHARKS" only work when they want to and always turn up their noses at odious and heavy cargo handling. The substitutes are called "catfish" because they get the leavings from the sharks.

The "catfish" who do the "sharks" work are paid directly by the sharks. The "catfish" get $25 a month from the "sharks" who keep the rest of the full pay for themselves. Real lovers of humanity, those Communist "sharks."

Last year, 270 of the "catfish" got together and demanded admission to the union. The stevedores turned them down flatly for two reasons. First, the "sharks" did not want other workers to share in the huge incomes from cargo unloading. Second, if the entire batch of 1,300 "catfish" got into the union they would undoubtedly vote against the Communists.

So the 270 "catfish" took their demand to court. A courageous judge ruled in their favor. He directed the Communist leadership to admit the 270 applicants.

THE STEVEDORES simply ignored the court decision. The angry judge drew up an order directing the union to admit the "catfish." Then he told the local police to serve the document on the union.

There was talk of violence, general strikes and retaliation. But the judge insisted. However, the Communists got to their friends in the capital.

The Brazilian government dispatched a warship loaded with marines. When the navy vessel got to Santos the marines deployed around the docks and the union. The police were prevented from serving the paper. The case went to a higher court, while the government in effect protected the Communist - controlled union.

This was last October. A few weeks ago the higher court ruled in favor of the "catfish." However, they still are not in the union.

But even if some "catfish" do get into the union, the Communist "sharks" will not have to share either the loot or power over the clogged docks — the lifeline of southern Brazil and therefore of virtually all Brazil.

THE LABOR MINISTER appears to have made certain that the "sharks" will retain control of the union. How did he do it? He went down to Santos. He cancelled the work permits of the 1,000 "catfish" who had not gone into court.

Thus, even if the 270 finally do get their own union cards, there will be no other "catfish" who can work on the ocean freighters coming into this port. No man can be employed in any capacity without such a work permit.

So the Communists will continue to dominate the port. The harbor will remain clogged. Because of slowdowns supplies desperately needed by Brazil's industry will trickle, not pour, in.

Brazil, covering half of South America, is vital to the existence of the free world.

Therefore this world of ours certainly deserves an answer to one question: Exactly who is protecting the Communists?

At Work And Play

By Joseph Dunn

Business firms are doing more today than just competing for the consumer's dollar. They're battling each other on the ball field, the bowling alley, the basketball court and even in horseshoe pits.

Why? Because companies all over the United States are pouring more than $1 billion a year into sports and recreational programs for their employes. These employes not only push pencils, operate machines and fill out ledger sheets but they bowl strikes, shoot baskets and hit home runs.

The stakes: Not a million-dollar contract for the company they represent, but a trophy for the company's mahogany-lined, glass enclosed shelf.

Don Neer, executive secretary of the National Industrial Recreation Association in Chicago, said industrial and municipal leagues, involving any sizable city in the nation, have attracted literally thousands of companies.

He pointed out that almost 98 per cent of all companies in the United States employing more than 100 persons have sports programs.

Neer was quick to add that sports programs among smaller companies simply involves bowling, which he said, is the No. 1 employe participation whether the company be big or small.

BIG COMPANIES, he said, employing more than 1,000 persons, usually run the sports gamut. Because of this, Neer remarked, "full-time sports directors" are listed high on company payrolls.

The sudden interest in company sports or recreational programs, Neer said, came about in recent years because of the university graduate. These people, he said, are sports-minded and, therefore, have helped the recreational program trend.

Other factors sparking these programs, Neer said, have been the availability of more employe leisure time and higher personal incomes. Also, he said, today's employe is "more mobile." In other words, ownership of a car permits him to get to out-of-the-way places where company sports events take place.

A recent survey among 300 companies showed the following game most popular among company personnel.

Bowling led the parade, followed by golf, softball, baseball and table tennis.

A spokesman for one company said that in order to keep its 30,000 employes from becoming "flabby Americans," it offers them a sports program involving softball, bowling, tennis, table tennis, horseshoe throwing, pistol and skeet shooting, golf, track, scubba diving and skiing.

It has been involved in sports since the turn of the century. In 1903 and 1904 the company awarded trophies for winning company bowling teams. In 1910 it sponsored baseball tournaments. Boxing and wrestling, popular sports in those days, rounded out the program.

Today, it has a huge recreational complex. This includes a gymnasium, four tennis courts, a major softball field that seats about 1,500 and has lights for night games and 25 horseshoe courts.

A spokesman for another sports-minded company said these programs are designed to improve morale among employes by allowing them the opportunity to show their athletic prowess and simply to get them together with fellow employes.

ALL PARTICIPANTS in the firm's more strenuous athletic programs, such as basketball and softball, are examined by a physician before they are accepted on the team. During the season, a broken leg or arm might occur, and this eventuality is backed up by workmen's compensation, the spokesman said.

The company estimated its spends about $10,000 a year on its recreational programs. This figure includes uniforms, bats, balls and other equipment.

Among the 5,000 employes who participate in sports, the following is the age breakdown in each category:

Bowling — 17 to 60 years.
Basketball — 17 to 35 years.
Softball — 17 to 45 years.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I avoid the formation of scum over my custards?

A. While the custard is hot and before you put it into the refrigerator to chill, cover with some waxed paper or a plastic bowl cover. This will prevent that skin formation on top.

Q. How can I clean leather - upholstered furniture?

A. Use saddle soap. This can be bought at shoe repair shops. Or you can use thick suds made with pure white soap flakes. Squeeze your cleaning cloth or sponge as dry as you can in order not to get the leather too wet. Rinse off the soap solution with a clean, damp cloth. Let the leather dry, then polish it with a soft, dry cloth.

Q. How can I prevent my paint brush from shedding bristles during the painting process?

A. By first placing the brush bristles up and pouring clear varnish into the base of the bristles. Keep the brush in an upright position until the varnish dries.

Q. How can I remove rust stains from an enameled sink or bathtub?

A. A mixture of ½-cup of grapefruit juice and one tablespoon of salt makes a good rust remover.

Q. What can I do if I have no stretcher for my freshly-washed lace curtains?

A. You'll do all right if you'll put them back on the rods while the curtains are wet, then slip a second rod through the lower hems to weight them down.

Diamonds Might Be Space Expert's Friend

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Diamonds may be a space scientist's best friend, too, an Oklahoma State University physicist says.

Dr. William J. Leivo, who heads a research team working here under Air Force and National Science Foundation grants, says some types of diamonds may be used as transistors and that they continue to perform at temperatures of up to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit — a big advantage in space exploration.

The rare type of diamond, a semiconductor of electricity, was discovered in 1952 by Dr. J.F.H. Custers of the Diamond Research Laboratory in South Africa.

Salem Pastor Assigned At State Session

Ralph Corbin of Salem was among appointments and repapointments of 35 pastorates made at the sessions of the Ohio Conference of the Churches of God at Findlay.

Conference officers for the coming year will include the Rev. A. Gail Dunn of Mendon, transcribing clerk and editor of the church's Ohio Bulletin; the Rev. Richard Gottier of Findlay, journalizing clerk; Herbert Now of Findlay, financial secretary; the Rev. Charles Allen of Massillon, treasurer, and the Rev. Fred Landolt of Ohio City, statistical secretary.

The conference formulated plans to set up an administrative council and to establish seven conference commissions.

The action, which would become effective with ratification by the 1964 convention, came at the annual meeting at Findlay College. The three-day convention concluded Thursday, with the Rev. Richard E. Wilkin of Wharton, Wyandot County, elected president for the coming year.

The planned administrative council would have 22 members, including both ministers and laymen.

Pupils Signup Set By Church

Registration for students entering the new parochial school of the Seventh-day Adventist Church will be held Aug. 25 from 10 a. m. to noon, Pastor Lyle E. Euler, announced. Classes will begin Sept. 3 and the teacher will be Lester Don Baker of North Carolina.

The school, which is situated 2½ miles north of Lisbon on Route 45, is near completion. It will consist of a one-room class for Grades 1, 3, 4, 6, 7, and 8. The state allows only six grades in a one-room class. Grades 2 and 5 were eliminated because of an insufficient number of prospective pupils for the two.

The curriculum will be the same as in public schools, but with the addition of courses of religious instruction, Pastor Euler said.

The land was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bowman of St. Petersburg, Fla.

At Work And Play

By Joseph Dunn

Business firms are doing more today than just competing for the consumer's dollar. They're battling each other on the ball field, the bowling alley, the basketball court and even in horseshoe pits.

Why? Because companies all over the United States are pouring more than $1 billion a year into sports and recreational programs for their employes. These employes not only push pencils, operate machines and fill out ledger sheets but they bowl strikes, shoot baskets and hit home runs.

The stakes: Not a million-dollar contract for the company they represent, but a trophy for the company's mahogany-lined, glass enclosed shelf.

Don Neer, executive secretary of the National Industrial Recreation Association in Chicago, said industrial and municipal leagues, involving any sizable city in the nation, have attracted literally thousands of companies.

He pointed out that almost 98 per cent of all companies in the United States employing more than 100 persons have sports programs.

Neer was quick to add that sports programs among smaller companies simply involves bowling, which he said, is the No. 1 employe participation whether the company be big or small.

BIG COMPANIES, he said, employing more than 1,000 persons, usually run the sports gamut. Because of this, Neer remarked, "full-time sports directors" are listed high on company payrolls.

The sudden interest in company sports or recreational programs, Neer said, came about in recent years because of the university graduate. These people, he said, are sports-minded and, therefore, have helped the recreational program trend.

Other factors sparking these programs, Neer said, have been the availability of more employe leisure time and higher personal incomes. Also, he said, today's employe is "more mobile." In other words, ownership of a car permits him to get to out-of-the-way places where company sports events take place.

A recent survey among 300 companies showed the following game most popular among company personnel.

Bowling led the parade, followed by golf, softball, baseball and table tennis.

A spokesman for one company said that in order to keep its 30,000 employes from becoming "flabby Americans," it offers them a sports program involving softball, bowling, tennis, table tennis, horseshoe throwing, pistol and skeet shooting, golf, track, scubba diving and skiing.

It has been involved in sports since the turn of the century. In 1903 and 1904 the company awarded trophies for winning company bowling teams. In 1910 it sponsored baseball tournaments. Boxing and wrestling, popular sports in those days, rounded out the program.

Today, it has a huge recreational complex. This includes a gymnasium, four tennis courts, a major softball field that seats about 1,500 and has lights for night games and 25 horseshoe courts.

A spokesman for another sports-minded company said these programs are designed to improve morale among employes by allowing them the opportunity to show their athletic prowess and simply to get them together with fellow employes.

ALL PARTICIPANTS in the firm's more strenuous athletic programs, such as basketball and softball, are examined by a physician before they are accepted on the team. During the season, a broken leg or arm might occur, and this eventuality is backed up by workmen's compensation, the spokesman said.

The company estimated its spends about $10,000 a year on its recreational programs. This figure includes uniforms, bats, balls and other equipment.

Among the 5,000 employes who participate in sports, the following is the age breakdown in each category:

Bowling — 17 to 60 years.
Basketball — 17 to 35 years.
Softball — 17 to 45 years.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I avoid the formation of scum over my custards?

A. While the custard is hot and before you put it into the refrigerator to chill, cover with some waxed paper or a plastic bowl cover. This will prevent that skin formation on top.

Q. How can I clean leather - upholstered furniture?

A. Use saddle soap. This can be bought at shoe repair shops. Or you can use thick suds made with pure white soap flakes. Squeeze your cleaning cloth or sponge as dry as you can in order not to get the leather too wet. Rinse off the soap solution with a clean, damp cloth. Let the leather dry, then polish it with a soft, dry cloth.

Q. How can I prevent my paint brush from shedding bristles during the painting process?

A. By first placing the brush bristles up and pouring clear varnish into the base of the bristles. Keep the brush in an upright position until the varnish dries.

Q. How can I remove rust stains from an enameled sink or bathtub?

A. A mixture of ½-cup of grapefruit juice and one tablespoon of salt makes a good rust remover.

Q. What can I do if I have no stretcher for my freshly-washed lace curtains?

A. You'll do all right if you'll put them back on the rods while the curtains are wet, then slip a second rod through the lower hems to weight them down.

Diamonds Might Be Space Expert's Friend

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Diamonds may be a space scientist's best friend, too, an Oklahoma State University physicist says.

Dr. William J. Leivo, who heads a research team working here under Air Force and National Science Foundation grants, says some types of diamonds may be used as transistors and that they continue to perform at temperatures of up to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit — a big advantage in space exploration.

The rare type of diamond, a semiconductor of electricity, was discovered in 1952 by Dr. J.F.H. Custers of the Diamond Research Laboratory in South Africa.

Indians Claim Topeka

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) —The Kaw Indians want a chunk of Kansas' capital city. Their tribal council is drafting a formal claim to the federal government to 23 tracts of land on the Kansas River which the Indians contend was never legally surrendered to the United States. A substantial portion of the capital city of Topeka stands on the property.

Prowler Cuts Screen At Lisbon Area Home

LISBON — Police were called at 4:30 a.m. today to the home of Mrs. Marie Neal of Pleasant Heights when a prowler tried to gain entrance.

Police found the back screen door was cut and a window had been broken in the door. There was blood on the glass, indicating that the prowler had cut himself. Mrs. Neal told police she heard glass break but thought it was the milkman but her small dog continued barking, so she called police.

She called again at 7:30 when she found a cellar window broken and a hole cut in screen on the side door.

Woman Hurt In Car Crash

A Lisbon woman was injured in one of two mishaps occurring in the county in a 12-hour period Friday, the State Highway Patrol reported.

Mrs. Helen Beers, 47, of 320 S. Lincoln Ave. was treated by a Lisbon physician for body bruises and abrasions of the left arm received in a crash at 11:30 a.m. on Route 164, about two miles south of the county seat.

The patrol said Mrs. Beers had started to pass when Arthur Hassler, 71, of Lisbon R.D. 1 began to make a left turn. No one was cited, the patrol said.

A 21-year-old Pennsylvanian escaped injury when his auto struck an embankment on Township Rd. 952, about a mile south of Route 14 near East Palestine.

The patrol said John B. Forsythe of Wampum was headed south when the auto failed to negotiate a curve and went off the left side of the road. Forsythe was cited for driving left of center.

Council's Action Planned On City Refuse Pickups

City Council is scheduled to take a new step Monday night toward an investigation designed at drawing up formal regulations for operation of the city incinerator department — particularly to define what types of refuse will be picked up in regular trash and garbage collections.

Councilman S. James Welch is scheduled to request that President Charles N. Edwards name a special committee to make the investigation, aided by Incinerator Supt. John Melvin.

The incinerator department's policies were aired in a Council caucus session Monday that was brought on by suspension of the collection of grass cuttings and hedge trimmings. Council asked the department to resume the service at least temporarily pending the investigation.

Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper is on vacation, but his office said it does not appear that any major items of new legislation will be introduced.

Dodgers Win Give-Away Game From Mets, Lead By 4

Yanks Win In 9th On 3 Homers; Twins Climb To 2nd

Cards Blast Giants; Phils Blank Bucs

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers gave every indication of trying to out-Met the Mets Friday night and give away a game, but the New Yorkers wouldn't stand for it.

This business of blowing games, after all, is a Met specialty. So they carefully waited until the top of the ninth to blow a 7-6 lead, helping Los Angeles to three runs, then calmly rolling over in their half of the ninth.

That saddled the Dodgers with a 9-7 victory they had done their best to give away and allowed them to stretch their National League lead to four games over second-place San Francisco, 13-0 victims at St. Louis. The third-place Cardinals trail the Giants by one game.

Philadelphia blanked Pittsburgh 3-0, Milwaukee rallied 3-2 against Houston and Chicago and Cincinnati split a twi-night doubleheader, the Cubs romping 10-1 before the Reds took the second 8-2.

The Dodgers blew leads of 1-0, 3-1 and 6-4 and held down their own scoring by some uncertain base-running before the Mets helped them out in the ninth.

Willie Davis started it with a scratch single, was sacrificed to second and took third on a passed ball. Maury Wills looped a little single to left to score him and Wills scampered to third on Jim Gilliam's single to left.

Wally Moon tapped to Duke Carmel at first, Carmel froze with the ball and the bases were loaded. The tie - breaking run scored on third baseman Jim Hickman's throwing error and a sacrifice fly drove in another.

The Mets had gone ahead with three runs in the fifth, centered around Duke Snider's two-run single, preceded by two infield singles, a hit batsman and Tommy Davis' error on a potential double play grounder.

Ron Perranoski gained credit for his 13th victory against two losses.

The Cardinals pounded 18 hits in the rout of the Giants, with Bill White and George Altman each driving in three runs. Giant right-hander Jim Duffalo, his pitching hand split by Curt Flood's single, was tagged with the loss. Giant rookie Jim Hart was taken to a hospital for x-rays after he was knocked unconscious by Curt Simmins' fast ball, the second time he's been beaned.

Ward, Hall Eyeing Top Rookie Honor

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees, with another American League pennant just about wrapped up, have focused interest on a race that's still wide open—the battle for Rookie of the Year honors between Chicago's Pete Ward and Minnesota's Jimmie Hall.

Ward hit his 16th homer Friday night, but the White Sox fell 4-2 before the Yankees, who broke loose in the ninth on homers by Tom Tresh, Hector Lopez and Clete Boyer after being shut out on four hits for eight innings by Juan Pizarro.

Hall belted his 21st homer and a double while driving in three runs in a 7-5 triumph over Washington that moved the Twins past the White Sox into second place nine games back of the Yankees. The White Sox are 9½ behind.

Ward, a 23-year-old left-handed swinger, is hitting .279 with 64 runs batted in and was the front-runner until August.

Since then Hall, a 25-year-old who also bats left, has been streaking. In his last 15 games, he has hit at a .356 clip with eight homers and 22 runs driven in, lifting his average 20 points to .261 and bringing his RBI total to 58.

Baltimore edged Kansas City 4-3 behind Stu Miller's sharp relief pitching. Boston used homers by Carl Yastrzemski, Lu Clinton and Roman Mejias to forge a 7-4 decision over Cleveland and the Los Angeles Angels handed Phil Regan his first defeat in two months by downing Detroit 9-6.

Pizarro, 14-7, went into the ninth with a 2-0 lead built on an unearned run and Ward's homer off Yankee starter Whitey Ford. Then Tresh hit his 20th homer, Elston Howard walked, Lopez connected for No. 13 and Boyer wrapped it up with his 12th.

Hall snapped a 2-2 tie with a two-run homer in the third, then doubled in another run in the sixth. Don Lock and Dick Phillips homered for the Senators.

Brooks Robinson lashed two doubles and a single and figured in the Orioles' first three runs but Jim Gentile's 20th homer, in the fifth, proved decisive. Miller came on in the sixth when the A's chased Dave McNally and wound up pitching hitless ball over the final 2 2-3 innings. The victory went to McNally.

Candy Spots Goes After 7th Rich Stakes Today

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—California's Candy Spots, biggest money winning horse of the year, goes after his seventh rich stakes today as the 7-5 favorite in the 94th running of the $75,000-added Travers.

One of the largest crowds in many years, is expected for the summit meeting of the Big Three consisting of Rex Ellsworth's Candy Spots, John W. Galbreath's Chateaugay and Harry F. Guggenheim's Never Bend. Chateaugay was 2-1 and Never Bend 3-1 in the early odds.

Three others were entered for the 1¼-mile Travers, which decided the 3-year-old title last year when George D. Widener's Jaipur nosed out JGW Stable's Ridan. They are Crewman, also owned by Widener, Mrs. A. J. Giordano's Hot Dust, and Louis Lee Haggin II's Choker.

Candy Spots finished third in the Kentucky Derby, won by Chateaugay but then took the Preakness. Favored again in the Belmont, Candy Spots ran second to Chateaugay. Never Bend was second in the Derby, third in the Preakness as Chateaugay was runner-up, and skipped the Belmont with a bad ankle.

With six starters the Travers will gross $81,400, the winner getting $52,910. That would send Candy Spots' earnings to $806,103.

Willie Shoemaker rides Candy Spots, who carries 126 pounds as do Chateaugay, to be ridden by Braulio Baeza, and Never Bend, with Manuel Ycaza up.

There are about four times more traffic fatalities at night than there are in the daytime.

Victory Fired By Schukert

Southpaw Walt Schukert pitched a strong game for American Legion Post 374 in a 9-3 victory over Columbiana Post 290 Friday night at Columbiana.

Schukert, who hails from Beaver Local, surrendered only four hits and fanned eight batters across six innings.

The East End post collected nine hits off Bailey of Columbiana. Nolan and Hasentab socked doubles, and lead-off batter Hamilton had a triple. Columbiana made six errors.

Dodgers Win Give-Away Game From Mets, Lead By 4

Yanks Win In 9th On 3 Homers; Twins Climb To 2nd

Cards Blast Giants; Phils Blank Bucs

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers gave every indication of trying to out-Met the Mets Friday night and give away a game, but the New Yorkers wouldn't stand for it.

This business of blowing games, after all, is a Met specialty. So they carefully waited until the top of the ninth to blow a 7-6 lead, helping Los Angeles to three runs, then calmly rolling over in their half of the ninth.

That saddled the Dodgers with a 9-7 victory they had done their best to give away and allowed them to stretch their National League lead to four games over second-place San Francisco, 13-0 victims at St. Louis. The third-place Cardinals trail the Giants by one game.

Philadelphia blanked Pittsburgh 3-0, Milwaukee rallied 3-2 against Houston and Chicago and Cincinnati split a twi-night doubleheader, the Cubs romping 10-1 before the Reds took the second 8-2.

The Dodgers blew leads of 1-0, 3-1 and 6-4 and held down their own scoring by some uncertain base-running before the Mets helped them out in the ninth.

Willie Davis started it with a scratch single, was sacrificed to second and took third on a passed ball. Maury Wills looped a little single to left to score him and Wills scampered to third on Jim Gilliam's single to left.

Wally Moon tapped to Duke Carmel at first, Carmel froze with the ball and the bases were loaded. The tie - breaking run scored on third baseman Jim Hickman's throwing error and a sacrifice fly drove in another.

The Mets had gone ahead with three runs in the fifth, centered around Duke Snider's two-run single, preceded by two infield singles, a hit batsman and Tommy Davis' error on a potential double play grounder.

Ron Perranoski gained credit for his 13th victory against two losses.

The Cardinals pounded 18 hits in the rout of the Giants, with Bill White and George Altman each driving in three runs. Giant right-hander Jim Duffalo, his pitching hand split by Curt Flood's single, was tagged with the loss. Giant rookie Jim Hart was taken to a hospital for x-rays after he was knocked unconscious by Curt Simmins' fast ball, the second time he's been beaned.

Ward, Hall Eyeing Top Rookie Honor

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees, with another American League pennant just about wrapped up, have focused interest on a race that's still wide open—the battle for Rookie of the Year honors between Chicago's Pete Ward and Minnesota's Jimmie Hall.

Ward hit his 16th homer Friday night, but the White Sox fell 4-2 before the Yankees, who broke loose in the ninth on homers by Tom Tresh, Hector Lopez and Clete Boyer after being shut out on four hits for eight innings by Juan Pizarro.

Hall belted his 21st homer and a double while driving in three runs in a 7-5 triumph over Washington that moved the Twins past the White Sox into second place nine games back of the Yankees. The White Sox are 9½ behind.

Ward, a 23-year-old left-handed swinger, is hitting .279 with 64 runs batted in and was the front-runner until August.

Since then Hall, a 25-year-old who also bats left, has been streaking. In his last 15 games, he has hit at a .356 clip with eight homers and 22 runs driven in, lifting his average 20 points to .261 and bringing his RBI total to 58.

Baltimore edged Kansas City 4-3 behind Stu Miller's sharp relief pitching. Boston used homers by Carl Yastrzemski, Lu Clinton and Roman Mejias to forge a 7-4 decision over Cleveland and the Los Angeles Angels handed Phil Regan his first defeat in two months by downing Detroit 9-6.

Pizarro, 14-7, went into the ninth with a 2-0 lead built on an unearned run and Ward's homer off Yankee starter Whitey Ford. Then Tresh hit his 20th homer, Elston Howard walked, Lopez connected for No. 13 and Boyer wrapped it up with his 12th.

Hall snapped a 2-2 tie with a two-run homer in the third, then doubled in another run in the sixth. Don Lock and Dick Phillips homered for the Senators.

Brooks Robinson lashed two doubles and a single and figured in the Orioles' first three runs but Jim Gentile's 20th homer, in the fifth, proved decisive. Miller came on in the sixth when the A's chased Dave McNally and wound up pitching hitless ball over the final 2 2-3 innings. The victory went to McNally.

Barbers Lose To Midland

Midland unleashed a barrage of home runs to top Osborn Barber Shop, 6-4, in the double-elimination tournament of the Slow Pitch League Friday night at Thompson Park.

Hitting for the circuit for Midland were Barney, with a pair, Zigarelli and Bradshaw. Stevenson was the winning pitcher.

Bob Gessford, fleet City League outfielder, collected four hits in four trips and Ferlaino and T. Wolfe each had a pair of safeties for the losers. Wolfe was the losing pitcher.

Dan-D-Bar won by forfeit over Scafide's in the nightcap.

Three games are on tap Sunday—Wellsville vs. the Bombers at 4, Koerber's vs. Ohio Valley at 5, and Klondyke vs. Midland at 6.

On Monday, Osborn's will play the winner of the Bombers-Wellsville game at 6, followed by Dan-D-Bar against the loser of Ohio Valley-Koerber's at 7.

Candy Spots Goes After 7th Rich Stakes Today

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—California's Candy Spots, biggest money winning horse of the year, goes after his seventh rich stakes today as the 7-5 favorite in the 94th running of the $75,000-added Travers.

One of the largest crowds in many years, is expected for the summit meeting of the Big Three consisting of Rex Ellsworth's Candy Spots, John W. Galbreath's Chateaugay and Harry F. Guggenheim's Never Bend. Chateaugay was 2-1 and Never Bend 3-1 in the early odds.

Three others were entered for the 1¼-mile Travers, which decided the 3-year-old title last year when George D. Widener's Jaipur nosed out JGW Stable's Ridan. They are Crewman, also owned by Widener, Mrs. A. J. Giordano's Hot Dust, and Louis Lee Haggin II's Choker.

Candy Spots finished third in the Kentucky Derby, won by Chateaugay but then took the Preakness. Favored again in the Belmont, Candy Spots ran second to Chateaugay. Never Bend was second in the Derby, third in the Preakness as Chateaugay was runner-up, and skipped the Belmont with a bad ankle.

With six starters the Travers will gross $81,400, the winner getting $52,910. That would send Candy Spots' earnings to $806,103.

Willie Shoemaker rides Candy Spots, who carries 126 pounds as do Chateaugay, to be ridden by Braulio Baeza, and Never Bend, with Manuel Ycaza up.

There are about four times more traffic fatalities at night than there are in the daytime.

Victory Fired By Schukert

Southpaw Walt Schukert pitched a strong game for American Legion Post 374 in a 9-3 victory over Columbiana Post 290 Friday night at Columbiana.

Schukert, who hails from Beaver Local, surrendered only four hits and fanned eight batters across six innings.

The East End post collected nine hits off Bailey of Columbiana. Nolan and Hasentab socked doubles, and lead-off batter Hamilton had a triple. Columbiana made six errors.

Small Outboard Motor Praised

By JOHN BOHANNAN

During the horsepower race of recent years and the rush for high-speed performance, many boating fans have forgotten the versatility and all - round handiness of the small outboard motor.

These miniature power plants have many advantages for anyone who loves the water and the fascination of moving along quietly at a leisurely pace, with opportunity to relax and enjoy the scenery.

The smallest sizes of outboard motors are completely self - contained, with their own fuel tanks, and requiring no external cables, batteries or other gear. They are light enough to be carried by hand, and small enough to fit in the trunk of a car.

—:—

THE TRAVELING man who likes to enjoy a little fishing on his circuit can carry a small motor along and line up rental boats to use on lakes and rivers in his territory.

This same setup can be used by a family on a vacation or weekend affording samples of boating in distant waters.

One advantage of the small motor for travel use is that it can be used nearly anywhere, regardless of horsepower limits established by some states on certain lakes and streams.

Even owners of high-powered outboards find plenty of use for an additional small motor. Mounted off center on the transom and hooked up to the same steering cables, the small outboard can be swung up out of the water when the big motor is planing the boat to the fishing reefs, then the small motor can be used for trolling, or moving short distances, thus preventing the larger engine from being fouled up by slow-speed use.

This also gives the skipper the safety advantage of having two motors with the assurance that one will bring him back to port if trouble develops in the other.

TOPS FOR FISHING and scores of other uses is the small outboard motor, self-contained, compact and light for carrying everywhere in the trunk of a car.

ALTHOUGH rarely seen, this same auxiliary use of a small outboard can be applied to the smaller inboard cruisers. With a bracket mounted on the transom, a small outboard can be clamped on and will provide enough push to move the boat, especially if the 5½ to 6 h.p. size is used.

If the boat has large enough rudder area, the outboard steering can be tightened and the boat steered by the regular wheel. Otherwise, steering and control cables for the outboard can be passed over the rail and connected to it.

This will give the owner of a single screw boat at least a smattering of the safety feature of twin screws without the double expense of two inboard engines.

The traditional auxiliary use for small outboards — that of providing power for small to medium size sailboats — continues to grow, especially among the family-size centerboarders. New boats now are coming equipped with wells in the stern deck for outboards, and their occasional help greatly widens the use and dependability of a modest sloop.

It doesn't take much power to push a sailing hull. We used a 5½ h.p. outboard as auxiliary power on a 35-foot keel sloop, and it performed well.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q.—What is the proper way to carry an outboard motor aboard an inboard cruiser?

A.—If the tank and carburetor are kept empty of fuel, it can be carried below decks. Otherwise it should be tied down to chocks mounted on a deck where any fumes or fuel drippings will be carried overboard and not get into the bilge.

Q.—What is the smallest and lightest outboard motor available

A.—The Neptune Mighty Mite, developing 1.7 h.p. and weighing 17 pounds.

NAUTICAL TERMS

Centerboarder — A sailboard with a pivoting board, lowered through a slot in the keel and enclosed in a watertight trunk, to provide lateral resistance.

Sloop — A single-masted sailheadsail.

Chocks — Fittings of metal or wood for holding something in place.

14 Races Set At Waterford For Holiday

Waterford Park will feature a twin program on Labor Day, Sept. 2, for a total of 14 races, according to Harry R. Bell, general manager.

The split program will start at 10:30 a.m. with five morning races, followed by a short recess for lunch and the afternoon card of nine races, winding up at about 5:20 for the day.

Highlight of the afternoon will be the Labor Day Handicap, a mile and one-sixteenth affair for 3-year-olds and upwards for a purse of $2,000.

Some of the better thoroughbreds at the track and several from nearby racing centers are expected to enter the handicap, including Kings Ghost, Like Rocksville, Scott City Girl, Royal Saya, Time Off, Cosmic Sucre, Big Diver and others.

Co-features of the day are the CIO Purse, an allowance affair for three-year-olds and upwards, and the AFL purse, also under allowance conditions for older horses.

Box and reserved seats are good for the entire day, and a special breakfast and luncheon will be served in the Imperial Room of the clubhouse as well as the grandstand cafeteria.

Waterford's Appreciation Day celebration will be Friday, Aug. 23, with admission to the grandstand free.

During the horsepower race of recent years and the rush for high-speed performance, many boating fans have forgotten the versatility and all - round handiness of the small outboard motor.

These miniature power plants have many advantages for anyone who loves the water and the fascination of moving along quietly at a leisurely pace, with opportunity to relax and enjoy the scenery.

The smallest sizes of outboard motors are completely self - contained, with their own fuel tanks, and requiring no external cables, batteries or other gear. They are light enough to be carried by hand, and small enough to fit in the trunk of a car.

—:—

THE TRAVELING man who likes to enjoy a little fishing on his circuit can carry a small motor along and line up rental boats to use on lakes and rivers in his territory.

This same setup can be used by a family on a vacation or weekend affording samples of boating in distant waters.

One advantage of the small motor for travel use is that it can be used nearly anywhere, regardless of horsepower limits established by some states on certain lakes and streams.

Even owners of high-powered outboards find plenty of use for an additional small motor. Mounted off center on the transom and hooked up to the same steering cables, the small outboard can be swung up out of the water when the big motor is planing the boat to the fishing reefs, then the small motor can be used for trolling, or moving short distances, thus preventing the larger engine from being fouled up by slow-speed use.

This also gives the skipper the safety advantage of having two motors with the assurance that one will bring him back to port if trouble develops in the other.

TOPS FOR FISHING and scores of other uses is the small outboard motor, self-contained, compact and light for carrying everywhere in the trunk of a car.

ALTHOUGH rarely seen, this same auxiliary use of a small outboard can be applied to the smaller inboard cruisers. With a bracket mounted on the transom, a small outboard can be clamped on and will provide enough push to move the boat, especially if the 5½ to 6 h.p. size is used.

If the boat has large enough rudder area, the outboard steering can be tightened and the boat steered by the regular wheel. Otherwise, steering and control cables for the outboard can be passed over the rail and connected to it.

This will give the owner of a single screw boat at least a smattering of the safety feature of twin screws without the double expense of two inboard engines.

The traditional auxiliary use for small outboards — that of providing power for small to medium size sailboats — continues to grow, especially among the family-size centerboarders. New boats now are coming equipped with wells in the stern deck for outboards, and their occasional help greatly widens the use and dependability of a modest sloop.

It doesn't take much power to push a sailing hull. We used a 5½ h.p. outboard as auxiliary power on a 35-foot keel sloop, and it performed well.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q.—What is the proper way to carry an outboard motor aboard an inboard cruiser?

A.—If the tank and carburetor are kept empty of fuel, it can be carried below decks. Otherwise it should be tied down to chocks mounted on a deck where any fumes or fuel drippings will be carried overboard and not get into the bilge.

Q.—What is the smallest and lightest outboard motor available

A.—The Neptune Mighty Mite, developing 1.7 h.p. and weighing 17 pounds.

NAUTICAL TERMS

Centerboarder — A sailboard with a pivoting board, lowered through a slot in the keel and enclosed in a watertight trunk, to provide lateral resistance.

Sloop — A single-masted sailheadsail.

Chocks — Fittings of metal or wood for holding something in place.

14 Races Set At Waterford For Holiday

Waterford Park will feature a twin program on Labor Day, Sept. 2, for a total of 14 races, according to Harry R. Bell, general manager.

The split program will start at 10:30 a.m. with five morning races, followed by a short recess for lunch and the afternoon card of nine races, winding up at about 5:20 for the day.

Highlight of the afternoon will be the Labor Day Handicap, a mile and one-sixteenth affair for 3-year-olds and upwards for a purse of $2,000.

Some of the better thoroughbreds at the track and several from nearby racing centers are expected to enter the handicap, including Kings Ghost, Like Rocksville, Scott City Girl, Royal Saya, Time Off, Cosmic Sucre, Big Diver and others.

Co-features of the day are the CIO Purse, an allowance affair for three-year-olds and upwards, and the AFL purse, also under allowance conditions for older horses.

Box and reserved seats are good for the entire day, and a special breakfast and luncheon will be served in the Imperial Room of the clubhouse as well as the grandstand cafeteria.

Waterford's Appreciation Day celebration will be Friday, Aug. 23, with admission to the grandstand free.

Strike At Ford Plant May Cause 10,000 To Be Idle

CHICAGO HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) —A strike at the Ford Motor Co. stamping plant by 3,750 union production workers will cause layoffs of nearly 10,000 workers in three other states.

Ford said the strike, begun by United Auto Workers Local 588 at midnight Thursday, would idle workers in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, effective Monday.

The Chicago Heights plant, shut down by the second walkout in three months, supplies body panels for all Ford passenger car lines except Lincoln Continental.

Ford spokesmen in Detroit and Chicago said layoffs of several thousand more employes would be necessary later in the week if the strike continues.

The spokesmen said "efforts will be made to resume negotiations at an early date." They said earlier that the union broke off talks on unresolved grievances over safety regulations.

Monday layoffs will include part of work forces at the following plants, Ford said:

Michigan—Dearborn engine plant and iron foundry, Livonia, Ypsilanti and Rawsonville; Sandusky and Sharonville, Ohio; and Indianapolis, Ind.

Man Gives Police Aid In Capturing Girl, 15

CINCINNATI (AP) — George Davis, a dogged delicatessen operator who chased a 15-year - old girl robber, aided police Friday in capturing the teen - ager in the apartment of a stranger where she threatened to kill a baby boy.

Police said the girl, armed with a loaded .38 caliber revolver, forced Davis to hand over $6.05, but Davis ran after her as she fled. Officers said she menaced a 3-year-old boy, and ducked into a bedroom closet, but surrendered meekly after police threatened to shoot. The girl, a Cold Spring, Ky., resident, was turned over to juvenile officers.

Man, 50, Represents Ohio In Swim Event

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Walter Poenisch, a 50-year - old grandfather, will represent Ohio in a 60-mile swim for $17,500 in prize money next week.

Poenisch, a cookie company president from the Columbus suburb of Grove City, will compete Tuesday in the Jim Moran Swim Challenge, a race from Chicago to Benton Harbor, Mich. The 200-pound swimmer says he is entering the race to show that a 50-year-old man can be as active as the younger fellows.

TORONTO (AP)—Oakley Galgleish, 53, president and publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail, died Friday of a heart attack. Galgleish became president and publisher in 1957.

3-Day Wildcat Strike Ends At Republic Steel

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—A three-day wildcat strike at Republic Steel Corp.'s plant here is over with United Steelworkers voting unanimously to return to their jobs.

The men voted at a meeting attended by more than 2,000 Friday night. John S. Johns, the union's District 27 director, urged the members to go back. A telegram from David J. McDonald, international president, also was read. He asked that the unauthorized walkout be ended.

The strike started Tuesday night when 900 workers voted to walk out and threw up picket lines. The strike idled 4,500 workers.

Al Lebbano, Local 120 president, said the strike was the result of the company hiring outside contractors to do welding in the plant while 25 company welders were laid off.

Other issues, he said, included unsafe working conditions and abnormal work schedules.

Lebanno said Thursday night that a civil rights issue also figured in the walkout, but Friday night he said there was no connection between that issue and the strike.

1 Killed, 1 Injured In Car-Truck Crash

MINSTER, Ohio (AP)—A car-truck crash on Ohio 66 in this Auglaize County community early today killed Larry Fortman, 18, of Rt. 1, Mercer County. Truck driver Ralph Gaier of Fort Loramie was injured and taken to a St. Marys hospital.

Authorities said Fortman evidently drove his auto out of a side road into the semitrailer truck. The truck carried a cargo of hogs, some of which were killed and injured when the rig overturned.

Cycle Shop Entered

LISBON — Mr. and Mrs. John Hilliard reported to the sheriff's office Friday the theft of $20 cash and helmets, T-shirts, wrenches and miscellaneous merchandise valued at a total of $130 from their Salem Cycle Shop on Pine Lake Rd. sometime Thursday night or early yesterday. Deputy James Gause said entry was gained by forcing a window of the restrooms.

Strike At Ford Plant May Cause 10,000 To Be Idle

CHICAGO HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) —A strike at the Ford Motor Co. stamping plant by 3,750 union production workers will cause layoffs of nearly 10,000 workers in three other states.

Ford said the strike, begun by United Auto Workers Local 588 at midnight Thursday, would idle workers in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, effective Monday.

The Chicago Heights plant, shut down by the second walkout in three months, supplies body panels for all Ford passenger car lines except Lincoln Continental.

Ford spokesmen in Detroit and Chicago said layoffs of several thousand more employes would be necessary later in the week if the strike continues.

The spokesmen said "efforts will be made to resume negotiations at an early date." They said earlier that the union broke off talks on unresolved grievances over safety regulations.

Monday layoffs will include part of work forces at the following plants, Ford said:

Michigan—Dearborn engine plant and iron foundry, Livonia, Ypsilanti and Rawsonville; Sandusky and Sharonville, Ohio; and Indianapolis, Ind.

Man Gives Police Aid In Capturing Girl, 15

CINCINNATI (AP) — George Davis, a dogged delicatessen operator who chased a 15-year - old girl robber, aided police Friday in capturing the teen - ager in the apartment of a stranger where she threatened to kill a baby boy.

Police said the girl, armed with a loaded .38 caliber revolver, forced Davis to hand over $6.05, but Davis ran after her as she fled. Officers said she menaced a 3-year-old boy, and ducked into a bedroom closet, but surrendered meekly after police threatened to shoot. The girl, a Cold Spring, Ky., resident, was turned over to juvenile officers.

Man, 50, Represents Ohio In Swim Event

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Walter Poenisch, a 50-year - old grandfather, will represent Ohio in a 60-mile swim for $17,500 in prize money next week.

Poenisch, a cookie company president from the Columbus suburb of Grove City, will compete Tuesday in the Jim Moran Swim Challenge, a race from Chicago to Benton Harbor, Mich. The 200-pound swimmer says he is entering the race to show that a 50-year-old man can be as active as the younger fellows.

3-Day Wildcat Strike Ends At Republic Steel

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—A three-day wildcat strike at Republic Steel Corp.'s plant here is over with United Steelworkers voting unanimously to return to their jobs.

The men voted at a meeting attended by more than 2,000 Friday night. John S. Johns, the union's District 27 director, urged the members to go back. A telegram from David J. McDonald, international president, also was read. He asked that the unauthorized walkout be ended.

The strike started Tuesday night when 900 workers voted to walk out and threw up picket lines. The strike idled 4,500 workers.

Al Lebbano, Local 120 president, said the strike was the result of the company hiring outside contractors to do welding in the plant while 25 company welders were laid off.

Other issues, he said, included unsafe working conditions and abnormal work schedules.

Lebanno said Thursday night that a civil rights issue also figured in the walkout, but Friday night he said there was no connection between that issue and the strike.

1 Killed, 1 Injured In Car-Truck Crash

MINSTER, Ohio (AP)—A car-truck crash on Ohio 66 in this Auglaize County community early today killed Larry Fortman, 18, of Rt. 1, Mercer County. Truck driver Ralph Gaier of Fort Loramie was injured and taken to a St. Marys hospital.

Authorities said Fortman evidently drove his auto out of a side road into the semitrailer truck. The truck carried a cargo of hogs, some of which were killed and injured when the rig overturned.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Saturday, Aug. 17, the 229th day of 1963. There are 136 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1717, the Mississippi Company was chartered with exclusive privilege to the commerce of Louisiana and New France. One condition, however, required that the company introduce 6,000 white and 3,000 Negro slaves within a 25-year period.

On this date

In 1502, Christopher Columbus took possession of what is now Honduras in the name of Spain.

In 1866, President Andrew Johnson refused to recognize the decrees of Emperor Maximilian of Mexico.

In 1909, Alabama became the first state to ratify the 16th, or income tax, Amendment to the Constitution.

In 1944, British RAF bombers staged one of the great fire raids of World War II by dumping 70,000 incendiaries on the German ports of Kiel and Stettin.

In 1951, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company inaugurated its microwave radio relay system for transmission of telephone calls and television programs between New York City and San Francisco.

Ten years ago ... U.S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. charged that racketeers were exploiting illegal Mexican immigrants to this country through narcotics and white slavery.

Five years ago ... The first U.S. attempt to hurl a rocket around the moon fizzled when a four-stage rocket exploded at a height of 50,000 feet after launching from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

One year ago ... A flash flood in Florencia, Colombia, killed at least 47 persons with 87 missing.

Only three U. S. presidents, besides Herbert Hoover (who was born in 1874), have lived to be 83 years of age or older. These were James Madison at 85, John Adams at 90 and Thomas Jefferson at 83.

QUESTION: Is a glockenspiel only played in a band?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: "Glockenspiel" comes from the German "glocke" or bell, and "spiel," to play. Bells were among the earliest musical instruments, used in China by 800 B. C. and introduced into England in the 7th Century A. D. They were used in celebrations, as warnings, and in churches, yet were also appreciated for the pure beauty of their sound. Groups of "bell ringers" often went around to play Christmas carols, one ringer to each bell.

Soon, bells were arranged as in (A) so that one performer could play tunes from a group of bells each having a different note. In the early 1700's Dutch bell makers substituted metal bars for the glockenspiel bells. In our time, most of us are familiar with the "bell lyra" or glockenspiel mounted on an upright lyre-shaped frame which gives such a gay sound when played in a band.

Composers of classical music, however, often wrote for the glockenspiel. We show the kind of glockenspiel used with an orchestra, the upper row having sharps and flats like a piano. Wagner wrote a famous passage for glockenspiel in the fire scene of "Die Walkure."

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Get eight glasses, some smaller and some bigger, and make a home glockenspiel by tapping them lightly with a wooden stick. Arrange them in a scale. The smaller ones will have a higher note. You can tune them by pouring in water — this will lower the tone. Then start playing tunes.

CRACKDOWN ON THE TELEPHONE CRANK

Authorities and the public are learning how to cope with this sick pest who uses the phone to annoy, threaten, insult

By JACK EICHOLZ and LOUISE ALLEN

THE TELEPHONE RINGS. A housewife answers it. A distinct click at the other end indicates that the connection has been broken.

Who was it? Someone with a wrong number? An unwelcome salesman checking to make sure she is home?

The phone rings again. This time the connection remains open, but the caller remains silent. The housewife hangs up. The sequence is repeated. This can be a nerve-racking experience. It can become terrifying if the anonymous caller speaks, mumbling something incoherent or obscene, or makes indecent suggestions.

At this point, a woman knows that she has been singled out by a phone crank, a member of a growing army of individuals who make thousands of such phone calls in the United States each day. In one Eastern city, telephone officials estimate that more than 50,000 anonymous calls clog their lines each year.

Fortunately, the majority of anonymous phone calls are not of the dangerous variety. Some phone cranks, however, are afflicted by psychological disorders and use the telephone to work off emotional frustrations or satisfy some mental aberration. Envy or revenge also is a motive behind the crank call.

One afternoon, in a Midwest suburb, a young housewife answered her phone, and as she listened her hand began to tremble. "It's my husband's office," the distraught woman whispered to a visitor. "He has just had a heart attack." The wife called the police and was rushed downtown where she found her husband sitting calmly at his desk, very much alive. She was so shocked that medical attention was required.

A similar call was made to the same home a week later and, through use of a new detecting device, was traced to a neighbor who was envious of the family's financial position.

Some anonymous phone calls originate with sexually immature individuals. Such a caller may demand that the housewife meet him for a love tryst. "You'd better come," he threatens, "or something will happen to your son on the way to school."

According to one psychologist, this caller is closely related to the Peeping Tom or the indecent-exposure sex offender. These types of men are so afraid of women that they have to approach them from a distance.

Most persons who become the victims of crank callers hope that the aggressor will become tired of his game and give up. Frequently this is the case, but sometimes the crank persists.

In a Cleveland suburb, for example, a 65-year-old woman was apprehended and convicted of making 13,800 voiceless phone calls over an 18-year period. She would begin her calls at 2 a.m. and dial the number of some 20 of her former neighbors against whom she bore resentment. As soon as a connection was made, she would hang up and call the next victim.

WHAT IS BEING DONE to nab phone cranks? In the Chicago area, a device records the fact that a certain station is making many calls each day to another subscriber. When the second phone subscriber is notified, she is given the name of the originating station if she requests it. Legal action may be initiated by the person if the calls are annoying.

Another innovation is the "trapping circuit," which is effective in smaller cities and towns. The device is activated by the mere push of a button and "locks" any phone connection. The line remains open until the source of the call can be determined by the telephone company.

Preventive action by police and public utilities companies is often hampered because in some areas telephoning for malicious purposes is not illegal. Even where there are laws, penalties frequently are light. A common penalty for a convicted crank caller usually involves a suspended sentence and a fine of from $25 to $100.

What course of action should you follow if you become the victim of a phone psychopath?

Some intrepid women, harassed by a phone crank, decide to set a trap for the caller by arranging the meeting he suggests. Such action can be dangerous, especially if the caller happens to be psychotic. Never initiate such action without the cooperation of police.

For the average subscriber who becomes the victim of a crank caller, the following suggestions may prove helpful:

1. If you are greeted by silence, don't panic. If you simply hang up, the crank may give up after a few tries.

2. If the caller speaks, don't become angry. Calmly try to get clues to his identity. If you have a tape recorder, use it to record his voice and then give him a playback. This may halt his calls. Turn the tapes over to police for further identification of his voice.

3. If someone calls you with a report of injury or death, have the caller identify himself or ask for his number so that you can call back to verify the facts.

4. If the calls become a real nuisance, get an answering service to screen them. A telephone pest won't persist if he can't get through to you.

5. If you know of someone who makes such calls, report him promptly so that he can be given psychiatric help before he causes harm.

Authorities are beginning to get the phone crank's number, thanks to science. But it is still the public that can do the most to silence him.

The Real Jack Spratt Story

Jack Spratt could eat no fat
Because upon his plate
His wife kept serving the diet that
She ate to curb her weight.

He hungered for goodies by the pound,
Just oozing calories,
But all she gave him was top-ground round
And sometimes cottage cheese.

Poor Jack! He whimpered he hadn't seen
A good square meal in years.
So while she reduced to size 14,
Spratt was reduced to tears!

—Georgie Starbuck Galbraith

Quips and Quotes

A little boy was showing his new friend around the house. When he got to the bathroom, he pointed to the scale and warned: "Stay away from that—all I know is that when you stand on it, it gets you mad!" —Frances Benson

Can't Beat the Prices

We're taking separate vacations this year,
We've already planned on where we'll go:
I'm taking mine on the back-yard bench,
She's taking hers in the patio.

—Stephen Schlitzer

A magician asked somebody in the audience to give him a blank slip of paper. He tore this into shreds and threw the pieces into his top hat. Then he reached into the hat and pulled out a $100 bill.

"How did you do that?" somebody asked.

"It's simple," he replied. "In the hat I have a rabbit who's a philanthropist."

—George Bevins

The husband began to tell his favorite joke at a party, but before he got halfway his wife corrected him on a minor point. A little later, she made other corrections, and she even retold the punch line in her own version.

The husband was exasperated. "We've been married 25 years," he told the guests, "and she still corrects everything I say."

"Twenty-six years," the wife said.

—Herm Albright

All through the supermarket shopping trip, the little youngster had been getting into trouble, and nothing his mother did could curb him. In total frustration, the mother shouted down the aisle at him, "All right, do anything you want to!"

And then she was heard muttering to herself: "Now let's see you disobey that."

One way to keep a teen-ager away from the car is to ask him to wash it.

—Jack Herbert

U Thant of the United Nations—

The Ex-Schoolteacher Who Meets

Not long ago he was a shy schoolmaster in the Burmese rice paddies; now he challenges world leaders on war-and-peace decisions

LAST YEAR, U Thant, Secretary-General of the United Nations, hurriedly left his 38th-floor office in the UN building in the midst of a war crisis between The Netherlands and Indonesia.

He had just received word that his only son, Tin Maung ("Tinny"), 21, had been killed in a bus mishap while vacationing in his native Rangoon, Burma. Now the Secretary-General returned to his New York City mansion facing the Hudson to console a deeply bereaved Madame Thant.

The next day he was conferring with special mediators on the Indonesian crisis, and when "Tinny's" funeral services were being held in Burma the Secretary-General was delivering an important address in Ottawa, characteristically admonishing both Russia and the United States for their "obsession with the past" which, he felt, jeopardized world peace.

Only a few months ago, Thant's voice, soft and placating during the shrillest of international arguments, trembled as he delivered the eulogy for his close friend, the late UN Undersecretary Omar Loutfi, whom Thant praised for "evenness of temper and political realism"—words which many use to describe Thant himself.

Then, visibly shaken, Thant left to unravel still another problem, the refusal of Russia and France to meet special financial obligations to the United Nations.

These two personal crises shed light on the veiled character of the "little teacher" with timeless face and Buddha smile, who, in a relatively short time, has risen from schoolmaster in Burma's rice paddies to leader of a 110-nation organization. He is a man deeply concerned with people who has been thrust into a position in which he must remain aloof and "neutral." He is a reluctant officeholder whose success is at the mercy of East and West—yet one who unhesitantly tells off both sides.

After the death of Dag Hammarskjold in 1961, Thant was named acting Secretary-General to fill Dag's unexpired term. Russia objected to him as Dag's full-time successor because she wanted a three-man directorship. The U. S. had reservations because he "lacked forceful character." Thant was so unknown that some British Commonwealth delegates couldn't pronounce his name. (It's OO-THONT, the "U" being a Burmese cross between "mister" and "sir.") But Asians and Africans prevailed with their stop-gap candidate and hoped he'd win friends before 1963 when the UN elected a Secretary-General for a full term.

THANT'S IDEA of winning friends was to visit Moscow and tape a radio program telling the Russian people that their government was not giving them the full story on the Congo. He also took President Kennedy to task for resuming nuclear testing. When not scolding both sides impartially, Thant was eminently successful in cooling various world crises, most notably in the Congo. As the UN election approached, both sides seemed favorably disposed—then came the Cuban crisis of last October.

Under the UN charter, the power of the Secretary-General pretty much reflects the decisiveness of the man on the 38th floor. During the Cuban peril, Thant made the office a take-charge position. He blasted Khrushchev's arms smuggling; he deplored Kennedy's blockade. Eventually, he brought both sides together for talks and became an avenue through which each could back down without losing face.

When the Secretariat election came, Thant won more easily than expected. "Every time a serious crisis threatens world peace," said Anastas Mikoyan, Russian first deputy premier and firm troika advocate, "we shall turn to Secretary-General Thant, who has won confidence and support."

Cuban dealings provided two insights into the man behind the inscrutable countenance. Thant, a nonabstemious Buddhist, enjoys an occasional Daiquiri cocktail (a favorite of President Kennedy, too). Once a reporter pointed to Thant's glass and asked, "Is that Cuban rum you're drinking?"

"Yes," Thant confessed with a sly smile, "but bought in the U. S."

Thant retains the Buddhist's respect for contemplation. During tense moments in the UN, he orders his aides to leave him while he meditates alone. He does so in strange surroundings for such an Oriental custom: he has never changed the chaste Scandinavian décor of Hammarskjold's office; only a delicately worked silver bowl and cigarette box bring a touch of Asia to the austere room.

These withdrawn moments give Thant what he calls "emotional equilibrium," a characteristic he feels sadly lacking in the world.

He blasted Khrushchev's arms smuggling; he deplored Kennedy's blockade. Eventually, he brought both sides together for talks and became an avenue through which each could back down without losing face.

When the Secretariat election came, Thant won more easily than expected. "Every time a serious crisis threatens world peace," said Anastas Mikoyan, Russian first deputy premier and firm troika advocate, "we shall turn to Secretary-General Thant, who has won confidence and support."

Cuban dealings provided two insights into the man behind the inscrutable countenance. Thant, a nonabstemious Buddhist, enjoys an occasional Daiquiri cocktail (a favorite of President Kennedy, too). Once a reporter pointed to Thant's glass and asked, "Is that Cuban rum you're drinking?"

"Yes," Thant confessed with a sly smile, "but bought in the U. S."

Thant retains the Buddhist's respect for contemplation. During tense moments in the UN, he orders his aides to leave him while he meditates alone. He does so in strange surroundings for such an Oriental custom: he has never changed the chaste Scandinavian décor of Hammarskjold's office; only a delicately worked silver bowl and cigarette box bring a touch of Asia to the austere room.

These withdrawn moments give Thant what he calls "emotional equilibrium," a characteristic he feels sadly lacking in the world.

The Swing By Hans Kreis

Find a girl, a dog, a football, and a pair of shoes.

Picnic Basket By Margaret Kay

Jimmy, Jill, and Johnny went on a picnic. To learn what they had to eat, change a letter of each word that tells what they carried in the picnic basket. For instance, start with butter for the buns.

Johnny forgot to take the cutter for the guns, but they had plenty of pill tickles. There were also a dozen dot logs and a big lake with budge frosting.

Three bottles of ice cold room bear were included. They found graces and gates in the basket and a sandy bat for each one. They had a wonderful time and planned to go again soon.

Riddles

1. What is the best thing to put into pies?
2. Which travels faster—heat or cold?
3. What has a mouth but never speaks and a bed but never sleeps?

Answers: 1. Your teeth; 2. heat—you can catch a cold; 3. a river.

David Buys Presents By Ragna Eskil

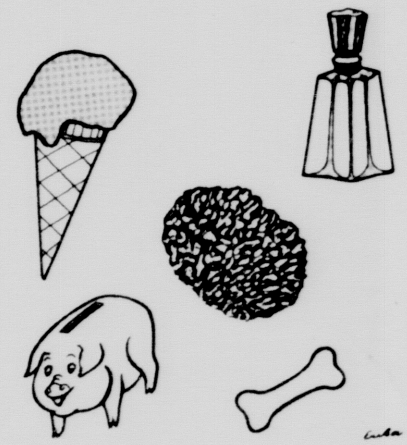
Unscramble the words in capitals and find out what presents David bought for members of his family.

For his mother he bought a
FRUMEEP TOTBEL;
For his father a PEGSON for washing the car;
For his sister a GYGIP KANB;
For his dog a BERRUB NOBE;
For himself an CIE-MERAC NECO.



The presents are pictured above.

Do your sewing on the famous SLANT-O-MATIC* zigzag machine by SINGER—free. In your own home. We'll lend it to you for a week.

World Crises

By JACK RYAN

U Thant's family visits the UN: Mrs. Thant (r.), daughter Ayeaya, her husband Tin Myiant (far r.), and the Thants' late son, Tin Maung. At left, Thant holds press conference.

"The emotional qualities of man have been dominant for a long time. I think qualities like bitterness and intolerance and hysteria have been rampant all over the world. I am against all emotional . . . hysteria."

Thant has a temper, but only incompetence and stupidity can set it off. Last year when the Katangan-ese tried to frame UN troops with a phoney massacre, Thant threw up his hands and cried out undiplomatically: "How can you work with a bunch of clowns like that?"

Thant differs from Hammarskjold in temperament and work habits, if not in dedication. Dag was aesthetic and bombastic; Thant pragmatic and philosophical. The late Secretary-General ran a one-man show; Thant consults regularly with his assistant secretaries.

UNLIKE HAMMARSKJOLD, who kept lights burning through the night, Thant is an eight-hour-a-day man whenever possible. He believes that in stepping away from his work he gets a better perspective on it. Thant leaves Villa Bella Vista, his 14-room residence in the Riverdale section, in a chauffeured limousine in time for his first order of business, reading cabled reports, at 10 a.m. each morning. Next come meetings with his staff; afternoon appointments are for visiting dignitaries, from Russian priests to Guinea's foreign minister.

Lunch is usually a business affair (a recent guest was the king of Morocco) in the dining room of Thant's personal suite adjoining his office. The suite also includes a bathroom, bedroom, conference room, and kitchen. Like Hammarskjold, Thant only uses it for a quick wash and wardrobe change enroute to formal evening affairs.

Around 6 p.m., Thant returns to his home. The UN owns the house and allows Thant $5,000 to run it. He also receives $27,500 in yearly salary and $22,500 for expenses.

In the past, Madame Thant attended two or three major diplomatic functions a year, but since the death of her son she has become a virtual recluse. The Thants' most frequent visitor is their daughter, Ayeaya, 23, a recent Hunter College (New York) graduate in sociology, and her husband U Tin Myiant, an electronic-engineering student. Friends say his daughter has become "quite Americanized," unlike Thant himself, who, although impeccable in English dress and speech during business hours, has retained Burmese traditions during his six years in the U. S.

When he arrives home, Thant changes to a longyi, a long Burmese kilt. In discussing relaxation, Thant describes as "unfortunate" the fact that he never developed a taste for anything "light." He is an avid reader, but only in ponderous political history. "Throughout my life, I have had a passion for just serious reading," he says and then as an afterthought adds: "although at one time Sherlock Holmes was popular in Burma, and I liked Sherlock Holmes very much."

Sometimes Thant will hike a bit, but he is not much for the strenuous life. If a good boxing match is on television, however, he will be sure to tune it in.

Thant believes the way of life he was taught as a child in Burma could help the world find peace. Thant was the oldest of four sons (three are now in government; one is an editor) of a well-to-do family in Pantanaw, a town of some 15,000 on the marshy Irrawaddy delta near Rangoon. He describes his father as a "lover of books," and Thant himself grew naturally into a passive, bookish youth.

"I was not fond of games," he recalls. "My hobby was just hiking and swimming. In those days one used to get up at 5:30 in the morning, do some hiking for 45 minutes or so, then swim." But the remainder of the day was devoted to reading and writing at home.

"MY SOLE ambition," Thant says, "has been to be a political journalist." He was at the University of Rangoon when his father died and he had to return home to assume duties as head of the family. When he returned to university life, he began to study teaching. In doing so, he met the man who shaped his future, U Nu.

U Nu was a young political radical, advocating freedom from British colonialism. Where Thant was a dispassionate observer, Nu was the energetic mover and shaker. Opposite as they were, the two students became friends and lifelong associates—and, imperceptibly at first, Thant was on his way from the scholar's ivory tower to the diplomats' glass-and-steel tower on the East River.

Burmese journalists claim that one of Thant's early roles was to act as a courier of love messages between Nu and the young girl he loved. When the couple's marriage plan was thwarted by their families, Thant arranged a river rendezvous and had a boat ready to carry them off on an elopement.

After those early years, Nu rushed into political battle, while Thant retired to a quiet teaching job in Pantanaw. It was not until after World War II that Thant actively engaged in government. With freedom, Nu became Burma's prime minister and immediately appointed Thant head of the new nation's press relations.

Burmese politicians were inclined to be derisive of the "little teacher" at first. But when Thant reportedly got away with lighting one of his favorite black cheroots in the presence of Nu, a militant antitobacco and antiliquor crusader, they guessed the prime minister had a friend he needed badly. It proved so: Nu came to rely on Thant for speeches, confidences, and guidance. In 1957, he appointed Thant ambassador to the UN. Once again Thant's scholarly composure was mistaken for "lack of forcefulness" —but, once again, not for long.

RECENTLY Thant made some observations on the future of the world. He feels that the 1970s ("If there are '70s") will see four major powers astride the world rather than just Russia and the United States. Western Europe will be added along with China, which, he says, will explode an atomic device "possibly this year or next."

Thant feels the UN will then be a peacemaker only in brushfire wars which, if unchecked, might spread. But the world organization will not be able to awe the nuclear powers: they must learn to live among themselves, he says, and now is the moment for them to figure out how.

Can the world achieve stability? Thant replies only that he is "essentially an optimist." In the meantime, the little teacher calmly prepares to meet the next crisis.

Ann-Margret: Hollywood's Hottest Newcomer

Off stage, this stunning redhead is surprisingly shy and insecure; but on stage, she's a spectacularly assured performer who spellbinds audiences

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

WHEN I MET Ann-Margret for lunch at a crowded Hollywood restaurant, she sat quietly and unnoticed in a far corner.

Her voice was so low I could barely make out what she was saying, and it revealed an insecure, little-girl quality that would be more befitting for a homely, ill-at-ease teen-ager than for a girl who has all Hollywood at her feet.

By her own admission, Ann-Margret gets so nervous before she faces an audience that she can't keep her food down. And for courage she relies on charms, such as the tiny, hand-carved Swedish horse she has carried with her since high school.

But the moment the beautiful redhead faces a microphone or camera, a transformation takes place. She becomes a human dynamo who can belt out a song like a youthful Ethel Merman—a performer who teases, wiggles, and squeezes the last nuance out of a rendition until she has her audience enthralled.

In three years, Ann-Margret has worked herself up from being a member of a comparatively unknown combo called the Sutteltones to the hottest property in Hollywood.

Her capable managers, Bobby Roberts and Pierre Cossette, have received much of the credit for her meteoric rise. Certainly their careful handling has assured Ann-Margret the proper opportunities and exposure—not too much and not too little. For instance, they got her into three films, and each has provided her with a more rewarding part. In "Pocketful of Miracles," she had little more than a supporting role. In "State Fair," her salary was $300 a week, and she costarred with Bobby Darin. In "Bye Bye Birdie," she was paid $35,000 and stole the show from such established performers as Janet Leigh and Dick Van Dyke.

Recently she signed with MGM for two more films—at a total price of $275,000. She also has commitments with Columbia and Frank Sinatra's Essex Productions.

Obviously, Ann-Margret's managers deserve a lot of credit. But I doubt if any force on earth could have deterred her from becoming a star. When she faces a camera, she has an indefatigable quality that cries out to be recognized.

In her own mind, Ann-Margret has a compelling reason to get ahead. "I want to make up to my parents for all the sacrifices they made for me," she said. "I want everything that I can possibly get for them—their own house, their own gardener, their own car. Why, we still don't even have a washing machine. My mother has to go to the laundromat twice a week!"

Considering Ann-Margret's present income, this statement can be explained only by the Swedish frugality of the Olsons (Ann-Margret does not use her last name professionally).

She vividly remembers the toughest time the family faced, when a series of accidents caused her father to be without a job for months. "Even after he was released from the hospital, he still was unable to work and, to make ends meet, we moved from Fox Lake, Ill., to Wilmette, Ill., where Mother was offered a job as receptionist at a funeral home. Our living quarters were included as part of her pay. That's why she decided to take the job."

Their living room was actually part of the funeral parlor. "Some nights they would use the front room for wakes until one o'clock in the morning," Ann-Margret recalled. "After everybody left, Mother would tidy things up, then close the sliding door that led from our side of the living room to the part of the funeral parlor where they kept the casket. It really didn't bother me until the kids at school began to heckle me about sleeping next to a dead body!"

Nevertheless, the Olsons stayed at the funeral parlor until Ann-Margret's father was well enough to return to work.

Ann-Margret was born in Stockholm, Sweden, on April 28, 1941. Her father had immigrated to the United States at 19 and settled in Fox Lake, near Chicago. He returned to Sweden in the 1930s, met and married the former Anna Aronson, then came back to the United States in 1942—by himself.

Because of the war, Ann-Margret and her mother were not able to join him until 1946, and neither of them spoke a word of English when they arrived. Because of the language barrier, the first months in the new country turned the vivacious child into a shy, lonely, and rather frightened youngster.

Mrs. Olson, who suffered from shyness herself, made up her mind that her daughter wasn't going to be burdened with the same handicap. The best cure, she decided, would be for Ann-Margret to perform in front of other people. So she enrolled her in a dancing school.

FROM THE TIME Ann-Margret was seven, she danced and sang at neighborhood social functions. At 17, she got her first big chance when a Kansas City hotel hired her as a last-minute replacement for a singer. This and subsequent engagements provided her with enough money to pay her tuition at Northwestern University. There, she and three young musicians formed the Sutteltones jazz combo.

The combo split up after an appearance in Las Vegas. But a few weeks later, Ann-Margret was back in the desert resort—as George Burns' protégée. Ten days after she closed at the Sahara, she was signed by 20th Century-Fox.

Ann-Margret frankly admits going steady with three people: Lou Adler, a music publisher; Jack Gilardi, a good-looking agent; and Eddie Fisher, her most constant companion when he is in town.

She was close to marriage once, when she was engaged briefly to Hollywood businessman Burt Sugarman. One day she decided she didn't want to be engaged any more and broke off their relationship. "I dig motherhood," she insists, "but I'm just not ready for it."

But from all indications, Hollywood and the world are ready for Ann-Margret, whose rush to stardom is played with the gusto of a child shouting, "Here I come—ready or not!"

Cover girl Gina's bright sailor dress is of "Moorelana" Orlon and cotton flannel. Her Daddy's new movie is "Four for Texas." Pattern 9261.

This crisply pleated dress needs only a saucy weskit to complete its up-to-the-minute look. Outfit of "Tarpoon" combed cotton. Pattern 9255.

Schoolboys may soon be asking for Gina's number. Here she dons a new silhouette, loose-belted in a gay cotton by Ely & Walker. Pattern 4673.

By ROSALYN ABREVAYA

■ CHESTNUT-HAIRED, blue-eyed Gina Martin is going to stop the boys in their tracks when she returns to school next month.

She has two things working for her: adorable freckled looks—and a sensational new fall wardrobe (easy to sew) of Joseph Love designs in fabrics from Burlington Industries.

Six-year-old Gina, the youngest of actor Dean Martin's seven children, is entering the second grade and says her favorite subject is "recess." Her pretty mother Jeanne confides that Gina really is a good student who likes school—though her famous Daddy does help her with her homework once in a while.

Adapting the English schoolboy look is this stunning black and white pin-striped cotton by Ely & Walker. Pattern 4675.

Gina is ready for finger painting in a blue pop-over smock with apple appliqué. Dacron-cotton by Klopman. Pattern 9257.

The jumper will rate a straight "A" this fall. Gina models one in scarlet "Villamoor" ribbed cotton over blouse with a pretty pointed collar. Pattern 4676.
